Epworth Street Woman Wounded; Quarrel Result

Mrs. Ruby Hirtaros, 17, in Hospital Suffering From Bullet Wound

ASSAILANT MAKES ESCAPE FROM SCENE

Shooting Is Result Of Family Quarrel, According To Police

Mrs. Ruby Hirtaros, aged 17, wife of Sam Hirtaros, also known as "Sam Hart", is in the New Castle hospital in a serious condition as a result of a revolver shot wound in the abdomen, sustained about 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at her home, 420 Epworth street. Her alleged assailant, Mike Hirtaros, aged 29, a brother of her husband, is still at large and being sought by the authorities. Her husband was severely injured on the head when struck a hard blow with the butt of the same revolver with which his wife was shot.

The shooting, according to neighbors and the police, is but the culmination of a series of quarrels, which apparently were the result of a contention over whether or not Mike Hirtaros, the assailant of his brother's wife, should reside with them.

According to the police, Mike Hirtaros left the home of his brother, Sam Hirtaros, about ten days ago, after a quarrel. He went to Farrell and returned Thursday evening.

According to the neighbors, he went to the home of his brother and a quarrel ensued, which lasted until 2 o'clock Friday morning and during which threats were made by Mike.

Shooting Occurs.
Mike returned Friday afternoon, armed with a .38 calibre revolver, which he had purchased, the police state, with money secured from the sale of the tires of his automobile.

Mrs. Hirtaros was seated at the home of a neighbor, when she saw her brother-in-law coming up Epworth street. She immediately went home. It was but a few minutes later until the neighborhood was startled by the sound of a revolver shot coming from the interior of the Hirtaros home. It was followed by the screams of Mrs. Hirtaros. ## Company B Guns To Blaze July 4

Company B of the 125th Engineers will stage a sham-battle on the road between Coalstown and Walno on Monday afternoon, July 4, at 2:30 o'clock.

This battle will be intensely interesting to those who have never seen one. Few have been staged in this section. Company B has about 60 members in its rank and the entire 60 will participate in the mock warfare. Women need have no fear of this battle as it will be a bloodless one.

Grove City Has Big Fire Loss

Montgomery Brothers Block And Store Destroyed By Flames

ESTIMATE PLACES LOSS AT $100,000

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Pa., July 2.—Fire, thought to have been caused by crossed wires on the second floor of the Montgomery Brothers block on Broad street this morning ended in a $100,000 loss.

The fire gutted the building and totally destroyed the heavy stock of clothing and haberdashery in the store.

The fire was discovered at three o'clock this morning and the fire departments immediately notified. By the time the firemen got to the scene the building was beyond hope of saving and the firemen lent their attention to saving adjoining buildings.

A four-hour battle with the flames the danger was put down, little damage being done to the buildings on either side of Montgomery Brothers. The loss is largely covered by insurance.

The block owned by John Boyles and son was also damaged, and some loss was also caused to Mylady's Shop, owned by Mrs. A. Turner, where the fire started, and the apartment and offices of Dr. George E. Harry, local veterinarian.

The fire was discovered by Chief of Police Charles Ray at three o'clock this morning, and firemen fought the flames for more than four hours. The damaged buildings are in the center of the business district and for a time it was feared that the entire block would be burned.

Bert Acosta Has Broken Collar Bone

(International News Service)
PARIS, July 2.—With an unconcern which would have done credit to the ancient stoics, Commander Richard E. Byrd and Bert Acosta, heroes of the latest American trans-Atlantic flight, have been going smilingly about since the crash of their monoplane America early yesterday morning, unmindful of injuries which would confine most men to their beds.

An X-Ray and physical examination of the American fliers at the American hospital here today revealed that Acosta suffered a fractured collar bone, and that Commander Byrd, while suffering no broken bones sustained serious physical and nervous shocks.

Acosta's stoicism becomes more remarkable in view of the receptions and other welcoming functions which he has attended since landing, at which he has uncomplainingly shaken all the congratulatory hands held out to him.

English Beauties Shun 'Bob'

Since Queen Mary of England made it clear that she does not approve of short locks long hair has become the fashion in London. Few of the prominent actresses of the English stage have "bobbed." Thalia Barberova, left, stage star, is typically English and her "crown" meets the requirements of the mode. Queenie Ashton, upper right, another stage celebrity, doesn't believe in improving on nature by dispensing with part of her hair; theatre admirers of Elsie Bower, right, below, say she was noted for her tousled and uncult locks long before Col. Charles A. Lindbergh brought the "touse" into favor.

Traffic Breaks Every Record

Thousands Of Cars Go Through New Castle During Day

UNBROKEN STREAM ON WASHINGTON ST.

If you have the idea that traffic in New Castle isn't heavy today, try and get through the city from east to west and make any kind of time. Makes no difference how much of a hurry prompts you, you'll take your time, for it does seem as though every automobile in the states of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan is trying to get through.

At 11:30 this morning there was a constant stream pouring through the bottle neck between City Hall and Croton avenue, and as soon as one line was halted to allow another to go, the cars began piling up. In less than a minute they were piled from Croton avenue to Pearson street, and by actual timing it took a car six and a half minutes to get from Court street to Mercer street, via Washington.

And the early morning rush was only a patch on what it will be before the day is over. By eight-thirty tonight the traffic officers will have the heebie-jebbes and Washington street will look like Michigan boulevard in Chicago.

Of course, it's not usual, the jam coming from Fourth of July picnickers. But while it lasts it certainly is strenuous.

Charlie's Charges Denied By Wife

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 2.—Blanket denial of all major charges is contained in Lita Grey Chaplin's answer to her comedian husband's cross-complaint in the now famous Chaplin divorce case.

Mrs. Chaplin's answer was filed in Superior court late yesterday and the case was set for trial in Judge Guerino's court on August 22. The answer embodies a general denial of her husband's charges, which included allegations that she was infatuated with two men, came home intoxicated, neglected her children, and had extravagant habits. She scouts his assertion that community property is valued at only $266,932.63.

Showers Break Chicago's Three Day Torrid Wave

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 2.—Chicago's record-three-day heat wave was broken today following a series of cooling showers.

More than two-score deaths have resulted in Chicago from the extreme heat of the past 72 hours. Twenty-one died yesterday, setting a new record for a 24-hour period.

Lightning Hits Car
Fifty passengers on a street car narrowly escaped death when the car was struck by lightning during a severe storm. Several were hurt in the panic which followed.

Several persons were drowned at the beaches and bathing resorts while seeking relief from the heat. Lake front beaches were taxed to capacity during the past three days.

The heat wave has been general over the middle and far west. Numerous drownings and deaths from heat prostrations have been reported from other sections.

Great Britain Proposes That 300,000-Ton Cruiser Program Be Increased

BIG EXPENDITURE WOULD BE RESULT

Instead Of Limiting Naval Armament, Conference May Add More Strength

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Geneva naval conference, sponsored by President Coolidge in the hope that it would result in armament reductions, bids fair instead to result in an appreciable increase in armament.

Want More Cruisers.
This was the opinion of American naval experts today after examining the initial proposals advanced by Great Britain with regard to cruiser strength. Not less cruisers but more cruisers, is the gist of the British program as thus far outlined. And cruisers provide the crux of the entire armament problem at Geneva.

The American proposal, laid on the conference table at the opening session, called for Great Britain and the United States to limit their respective cruiser strength to 200,000 tons, with 180,000 tons for Japan. The United States hasn't anything like 300,000 tons of cruisers, even counting the old and now almost obsolete types. The proposal was framed here with the (Continued On Page Two)

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2.—Here's fair warning to Pennsylvania motorists—and pedestrians. These figures are based on an average of past years.

City Residents Also Pay Taxes Better This Year

Citizens of New Castle as well as those of the country have been more prompt in paying their city and school taxes during June, 1927 than for the same period in June, 1926 according to Phillip Greer, deputy in the office of Ira Ramsey, city treasurer.

Greer said collections of city tax for June, 1926 amounted to $120,266.29 and for the month of June this year $132,679.08.

He displayed statistics showing school taxes for June 1926 paid to the amount of $86,172.84 and June, 1927 to be $88,782.22.

Thermometer Busts, Sun's Rays Too Hot

(International News Service)
OIL CITY, Pa., July 2.—Edward Schwabenbauer, local restaurant man, now is prepared to believe almost anything in the line of heat stories.

He knew it was hot for his thermometer registered 93 degrees. But still it didn't seem reasonable. So he placed his heat indicator in the rays of the blazing sun to check up on its accuracy.

Schwabenbauer doesn't know just how hot it was, for a few minutes after he exposed the instrument to old sol's ray, he heard a distant "pop" when he hastened to the thermometer he found that the mercury had kept right on going through the top of the tube. The thermometer registered 120 degrees when the top broke off as the mercury sailed skyward on its torrid flight.

THOUSANDS LINE STREETS OF CITY

Byrd And Acosta Will Go To Hospital For Examination

By WILLIAM P. CARNEY
International News Service Staff

PARIS, July 2.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and the three intrepid airmen who accompanied him on the dramatic flight of the "America" from New York to France, arrived at the St. Lazare station here from Caen at 12:20 o'clock this afternoon and were received with hysterical enthusiasm similar to that marking the welcome of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh after his historical flight.

Cheering crowds swarmed about the railroad station as the train pulled in with Byrd, Bert Acosta the pilot, Lieut. G. O. Noville, the radio operator, and Bernt Balchen, the relief man, on board.

Cheers for Americans.
"Vive les Americains!" shouted the huge throng.

The cheers grew in volume as the American fliers, their faces wreathed in smiles, stepped from the train. The crowds pressed close to the fliers, milling about them and shouting words of praise. The crush was reminiscent of the mob that surrounded Lindbergh at Le Bourget field after he landed in the Spirit of St. Louis.

It required ten minutes for the fliers to reach a small room in the (Continued On Page Two)

You can travel for the week end, where the crowds are mighty thick, but for me I guess I'll stay here and be called a small town hick. You can ride your automobile for a thousand miles or so, but for me I'm sticking homebound, there's no place that I will go. For on holidays the traffic makes me sore as any pup, and I keep my horn a blowing just to speed the wagons up. And the crowds keep on a milling and a pushing at the shore, as I say such crowds on holidays are apt to make me sore. So to save my disposition I will stay right here at home, you can go where you've a mind to, you can ride or fly or roam, but I'm staying in the city where I've lots of things to do, for these crowds would drive one goofy, gosh its warm, its ninety two.

Don't tell Mrs. Byrd, but my nurse says he is better... looking than Lindbergh. I can imagine how humiliated he was when his radio went on the bum.

Coal Strike To Wait On Public To Demand End

Stoppage Since April 1 To Continue Until The People Intervene

Depleting Bins In Homes Expected To Bring About Final Settlement

By CARL L. TURNER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.
PITTSBURGH, July 2.—Settlement of the nationwide bituminous coal strike which has been in effect since April 1, will have to await the intervention of the public.

This much is being admitted, privately of course, by representatives of both the miners and operators in this region, generally recognized as the main "front" in the bitter industrial battle.

The date on which the public will rise up in arms and force a resumption of mining to fill the rapidly depleting coal bins is being estimated variously as three to five months from now by different observers.

Reserve Going
Normally there is a national bituminous reserve of 40,000,000 tons, but prior to the general walkout on April 1, when the Jacksonville wage agreement expired the reserve stood at approximately 70,000,000 tons, according to government figures.

This immense reserve has dwindled rapidly until now union officials claim it does not exceed 40,000,000 tons. Non-union mines of West Virginia, Kentucky and Western Pennsylvania produce less coal than is consumed each week.

When the reserve is nearly exhausted it is a natural consequence that prices will rise rapidly, shifting the burden of the suspension from the shoulders of the miners and operators to the consumers who are the general public.

Both sides expect the break to occur at that point and each hope that the well of public sentiment will favor their side. The miners hope to convince the public that they cannot accept lower wages and live decently; that it is to the interest of everyone to raise, rather than lower, standards of living.

Operators Attitude
The operators, on the other hand, would have the public accept their story that they cannot continue to pay wages demanded by the miners and operate at a profit. Both factions are counting heavily upon winning public sentiment for their cause.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, told International News Service that defeat of the union miners would mean "cut-throat" competition among the operators with only the strongest surviving.

Moreover, he said, this keen competition would force miners and their families into virtual slavery because the operators paying the lower wage would be able to undersell their competitors. Such condition would have a decidedly ill effect upon the general welfare of the nation, he contended, because the prosperity of so many sections depends upon mining, one of the chief industries.

BRITISH PROPOSAL ON CRUISER ISSUE LEANS TO INCREASE

Idea that this government could juggle the excess destroyers and the most ancient of the cruisers in a way as to eliminate a lot of old tonnage and by a carefully worked out system of replacement building gradually come up to the 300,000 mark.

New British Proposal.
The latest proposal of the British delegation, however, has rather startled administration officials. The British have proposed that the United States should build a program of considerable magnitude. Just how great may be judged from the fact that today the United States has but ten modern cruisers, of a total tonnage of 75,000, two under construction and six more authorized but not yet laid down.

It would cost nearly a half billion dollars, naval experts figure, for the United States to reach naval parity with Great Britain on any cruiser allotment greater than 300,000 tons.

The American delegates are expected to contend strongly for a limitation close to that recommended in the original program, 300,000 tons. In fact, America is willing, as Gibson said at the opening of the conference, to see the ratio of 300,000 tons materially reduced.

EPWORTH STREET WOMAN WOUNDED; QUARREL RESULT

band was upstairs and rushed to the assistance of his wife.

As the neighbors gathered, or rushed to the vicinity of the house, they saw Sam Hirtaros, the husband of the wounded woman, struggling with his brother Mike in the doorway for possession of a revolver. In the struggle, the brother struck the husband a terrific blow on the head with the butt of the gun, causing a big gash.

The struggle continued down the porch steps and terrace into the middle of the street, where the husband finally wrenched the revolver from the hands of his brother and threw it up on the lawn in front of the house.

Assault on Fleet.
While the distracted husband rushed into the house to the side of his wounded wife, her assailant walked down a path leading through the hollow to Florence avenue and disappeared. He has not been seen since.

The husband reappeared in a few minutes and asked the neighbors to call the police and a physician. Officers Horner, Hillers and Lynch answered the call.

On arriving, it was determined that the injuries of Mrs. Hirtaros were serious and Officers Hillers and Lynch rushed her to the New Castle hospital. Detective Horner remained on the scene and started a search of the neighborhood for the assailant of Mrs. Hirtaros. In the meantime Captain J. Ed Elder and Officer Longstreth also arrived on the scene and joined in the search.

On the arrival of Mrs. Hirtaros at the New Castle hospital, Dr. J. M. Popp assumed charge and performed an operation, which resulted in the removal of the bullet. It had punctured the duodenum or section of the bowel next the stomach. The punctures were sewed and the bullet removed and the condition of the victim is as good as could be expected.

The revolver showed that an attempt had been made to fire it twice, but that only one bullet had exploded. The shooting recalled the fact that this is the same house in which former County Detective J. M. Dunlap resided a number of years ago when it was bombed by some unknown enemies of the then county detective.

PARIS WELCOMES COMMANDER BYRD AND COMPANIONS

station where they were officially welcomed by Minister of War Painleve and M. Bokanowski of the municipal council.

Taken to Hotel.
The fliers were taken from the station, through huge throngs of people, to the Continental hotel.

There they appeared on the balcony of the Continental, which was decorated with American and French flags.

Five thousand persons in the streets below cheered them wildly. The fliers acknowledged the welcome with bows and waves of their hands. The cheering was continuous. Finally the fliers left the balcony, went to their rooms, bathed, shaved and prepared for a luncheon in their honor at the Inter-Allied club given by Sheldon Whitehouse, American charge d'affaires.

Streets Jammed.
The streets were so jammed with people that it required half an hour for the automobile containing the fliers to make the trip from the railroad station to the Continental. Every window along the route was occupied and people leaned over curiously to get a glimpse of the airmen and to cheer them. The fliers' car was preceded by four automobiles containing officials and decorated with flags.

The trip from Caen was a triumphal procession. Crowds were gathered at every stop. The fliers smiled at the people from the windows and at many stations leaned out and shook hands with those who pressed about the window panes.

Byrd and his companions were kept busy all along the route autographing cards and pictures for their admirers.

Fliers Examined.
An embassy physician, Dr. Bribainbridge, examined all the fliers physically at Caen. He was worried over the condition of Byrd and Acosta. Both of them, it was decided, will go to the American hospital in Paris after luncheon for another examination.

Near Evreux the train passed a boat train bound for the liner Aquitania which is en route to Cherbourg. The passengers gave the fliers a real American cheer.

Byrd received the French correspondents in his hotel room.

"We are very glad to be in France," said Byrd. "We wish to thank the French people for the wonderful reception they have given us. The welcome was overwhelming and a little disconcerting."

Mrs. John Marshall of Virginia, Byrd's home state, rushed up to Byrd in the Continental and embraced him. "Your cousin Mary and your uncle William, who love you better than anyone in the world, wanted me to embrace you for them," she said.

Go To Luncheon.
Byrd and Noville went to the luncheon at the Inter-Allied club attired in white summer dress uniforms which had preceded them to Paris.

Acosta was a double breasted suit belonging to the International News Service staff correspondent, who is about the same build as the strapping pilot. It was a good fit.

Balchen, a little self-conscious, was rigged out in a suit belonging to the prefect of Calvados. Balchen is a muscular young man and bulges at the shoulders. He was formerly middleweight champion boxer of Norway. The suit was decidedly too small for Balchen and it seemed he might burst through the seams any moment.

The famous crew of the America were lined up by photographers in front of the Inter-Allied club and their pictures taken.

Clarence Chamberlain and Charles Levine, New York to Germany fliers, were also guests of the club and they, too, were photographed, together and in a group with the Byrd fliers.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Louis Bleriot, first man to fly across the English channel; General Girod, Rear Admiral Prochot and leading members of the American colony.

The score was 6-2, 6-4.

Iowa Is Organizing To Save Game Supply

(International News Service)

IOWA CITY, Iowa, July 2.—Organization of a society for the conservation of fish and game in Iowa, which will seek its membership from the ranks of the Izaak Walton League is underway in Iowa. The new organization will attempt to take the place of the Izaak Walton League in the state, plans later enlarged to nationwide scope.

Dr. Bohumil Shimek, professor at the University of Iowa here, and until recently head of the state Izaak Walton League, is taking the lead in organizing the new society. He resigned as state president several weeks ago, declaring control of the league had passed into the hands of a few Chicago capitalists.

The principles of Will H. Diggs, who founded the league, have been lost sight of by these two men, Dr. Shimek charges. That Dr. Shimek will have the backing of virtually the entire Izaak Walton League of Iowa is attested by the number of leagues that have voted to secede from the national organization and follow the lead of the local professor. A state convention for the purpose of organizing a new state body will be held in the near future, Dr. Shimek has announced.

Sane Operation Of Cars In Western Pennsylvania To Be Demanded

State highway police, located in New Castle, today sounded a warning note to drivers of automobiles concerning operation of motor cars and motorcycles tonight, Sunday and the Fourth of July.

The police said that they would have sufficient men in this district to cover all the roads in Lawrence county and they intend to enforce the letter of the law so that accidents can be kept to a minimum.

They said that no motorist should hold back traffic by driving at a very slow pace and they advise operation of motor vehicles at the rate of at least 25 miles an hour so that traffic can be kept moving expeditiously.

"Watch carefully at all intersections along the highways and in making turns or slowing down, signal other drivers," they warned. "Reckless operation of cars can be had at 25 miles an hour the same as 60 or 70. Reckless operation will result in arrest."

The state highway police said they would watch all motorists in climbing and descending hills and declared that arrests will be made for passing other automobiles on curves. Automobileists should have their lights inspected and carry extra bulbs.

"We expect to have sane operation of automobile cars. Any person who gets into an automobile while in an intoxicated condition and endangers the lives of other persons or himself can expect no mercy from state highway police," they declared.

Fourteen Planes In National Tour Fly To Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 2.—The 14 airplanes of the third national air tour were to arrive here shortly after noon today. Thousands of persons were expected to greet them when they land at Rodgers field, Aspinwall.

The fliers will be the guests of the Pittsburgh Aero club here. Among the air fleet is E. Cleveland, manager of the Mayer Aircraft corporation, of Bridgeville, near Canonsburg.

John Dempsey Murders Wife; THEN SUICIDES

Elsie Carlow, sister of Mrs. Dempsey, was an eye-witness to the shooting. According to Elsie Carlow, Dempsey made no threats just before the shooting and only a few words passed between the two.

"I came in the room just about as they did," Elsie told police. "They came up together. The door was not locked, there was some little conversation, but nothing important. Then I heard Edna say, 'Leave me do my work, I'm busy.'"

"John said something, I did not know what it was. Edna turned her back a moment. I saw John's hand evidently tighten around something and I saw him spring, as if to attack Edna.

"Just then Edna turned around quick as if sensing danger. John raised his hand. He had a gun and a second later he fired. I screamed and ran downstairs. As I was running I heard what sounded like two more shots, but maybe only one more shot was fired.

It was terrible. I was there and yet I couldn't do anything to help my sister.

My sister had been afraid of John when they were living in California before they came here. He stabbed her with a knife and he threatened at other times to kill her."

REVEAL ENGAGEMENT AT AFTERNOON PARTY

Miss Laura Blucher, Park avenue, entertained in her home Friday afternoon as a medium of announcing the engagement of her sister, Miss Claribel Blucher, to Ray Foster of Plainville.

Three tables of bridge were in play and dainty favors were won by Mrs. Robert Sherman and Miss Nellie Foster.

Baskets of garden flowers were used attractively in decoration throughout the home. Color tones of pink and white were carried out in the table appointments and menu. From a printed card on which was printed "In the Heart of a Rose" in the center of the table, pink ribbon streamers extended to roses marking each place. When the ribbons were pulled, a tiny card revealed the names "Claribel and Ray".

The hostess had as aides Mrs. Howard Magill and Mrs. M. H. Smith. Miss Blucher is a graduate of the New Castle high school and Indiana State Normal school and has been a teacher in the W. N. Aiken school. No date has been set for the wedding.

Byrd And Acosta Injured As Plane Struck Channel

Both To Be Examined In Paris Hospital To Determine Injuries.

(International News Service)
PARIS, July 2.—The possibility that Commander Richard E. Byrd of the America and the pilot, Bert Acosta, may have suffered serious internal injuries was indicated today when Dr. Bainbridge of the American embassy staff showed concern regarding their condition.

He gave both of them a physical examination at Caen. Admitted he was worried, he arranged that they should undergo another examination at the American hospital in Paris this afternoon.

When the America plunged into the channel near Ver-Sur-Mer Byrd was catapulted through the window of the plane into the water. The plane landed with a terrific impact and Byrd went head first into the water. He received a blow over the heart and a fairly serious bruise from which he is suffering slightly. He may have received other injuries.

Acosta is suffering considerable pain from a wrenched shoulder, the result of having been thrown against the side of the plane as it was landing. He also sustained bruises about the shins and his knees are badly skinned.

X-Ray treatment will be given both Byrd and Acosta this afternoon.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

WE CELEBRATE this July Fourth the one hundred and fifty-first anniversary of the Independence of the United States, or rather the declaration of that independence, for much fighting remained to be done after the colonist proclaimed their secession from the government of Great Britain.

The United States is not an old government as age is considered, but no nation that has ever been established has made such progress in a century and a half as has this one. Ohio was practically the outpost of American civilization when the Declaration of Independence was signed.

The thing which gives the United States a distinction from other great governments is that it has never adopted practices of military aggression, and the same liberty that was demanded by the colonists has been vouchsafed to other nations. America has always been the friend of the weak peoples struggling to find themselves in a broader experience of freedom.

The career of the United States, unfortunately, has not always been one of peace, but history records that this nation has never engaged in a war that was not forced upon it in defense of moral principles in the interests of humanity, or by the aggressions of other peoples.

America, aside from providing a haven for millions of oppressed peoples of other lands, has made valuable contribution in all lines of activity to the world. The products of American genius in little more than a century have enriched mankind generally, with the assurance of much benefit to generations to come.

Independence Day is almost generally celebrated as a holiday. To most persons it is an opportunity of getting away from regular employments and participate in recreations which are so common in these times. There are still many patriotic souls, however, who have a vision of America's duty in the development of the nations of the future. They remember gladly the history of the republic, and look forward in hope to the beneficent part this nation is destined to play in world affairs.

AMERICA LEADS.

FOUR SUCCESSFUL transoceanic flights within a few weeks bring the feat to the borderland of the commonplace, and yet each successive expedition is followed as feverishly as the first by those who, with feigned nonchalance, remark that the thing has lost its thrill.

Just as while the Lindbergh and Chamberlin-Levine flights were in progress, the public eagerly sought every newspaper edition and kept newspaper office telephones hot while the two transpacific fliers and Commander Byrd were in the air. The thrill was still there and they found it.

Three trans-Atlantic and one trans-Pacific flights by American-built planes equipped with American-built motors and piloted by American-trained aviators bring forcefully before the world the fact that aviation in the United States is not the puny thing it has been reputed to be.

This country, industrially, has taken the lead in development of long-distance flying. Its intrepid aviators have given the world virtually all it knows about navigating the air over the high seas and have paved the way to air transportation between the United States and the continents beyond the Atlantic and the Pacific.

England, France and Germany lead in passenger air lines but they lag behind the United States in transportation of mail and freight by air in aeronautical research. The new science of aviation is being written here and the rest of the world seems content to accept its theories.

TROUBLE IN ENGLAND.

IN ENGLAND the struggle for sex equality pursues a rough and difficult road. Partial suffrage for women was won only after a long and bitter fight, and the final extension of suffrage to all women over 21 years was not gained in a day. Now it seems the next rung in the ladder is as far out of reach as the first step was when first reached for.

The effort to throw the gates of Oxford university wide open to British women has met with rebuff as strong as the onslaught upon those gates. The dons of the venerable institution of learning have decided that an admixture greater than one woman student to very four men would not be advantageous either to the institution or to men students.

Of course the feminists are raving and raging, but more because of inference they discover in the ruling than because of the denial of equal rights. They are hurt especially by the implication that they cannot bring as much honor to historic Oxford.

Undoubtedly the greatest handicap to English women, in their effort to obtain entrance on an equal footing to places hitherto reserved for men, is tradition. There are many Englishmen who object strenuously and seriously to abandoning customs and manners that have the weight of centuries behind them. The fact that the thing was not done in the days of Good Queen Bess is reason enough to oppose it.

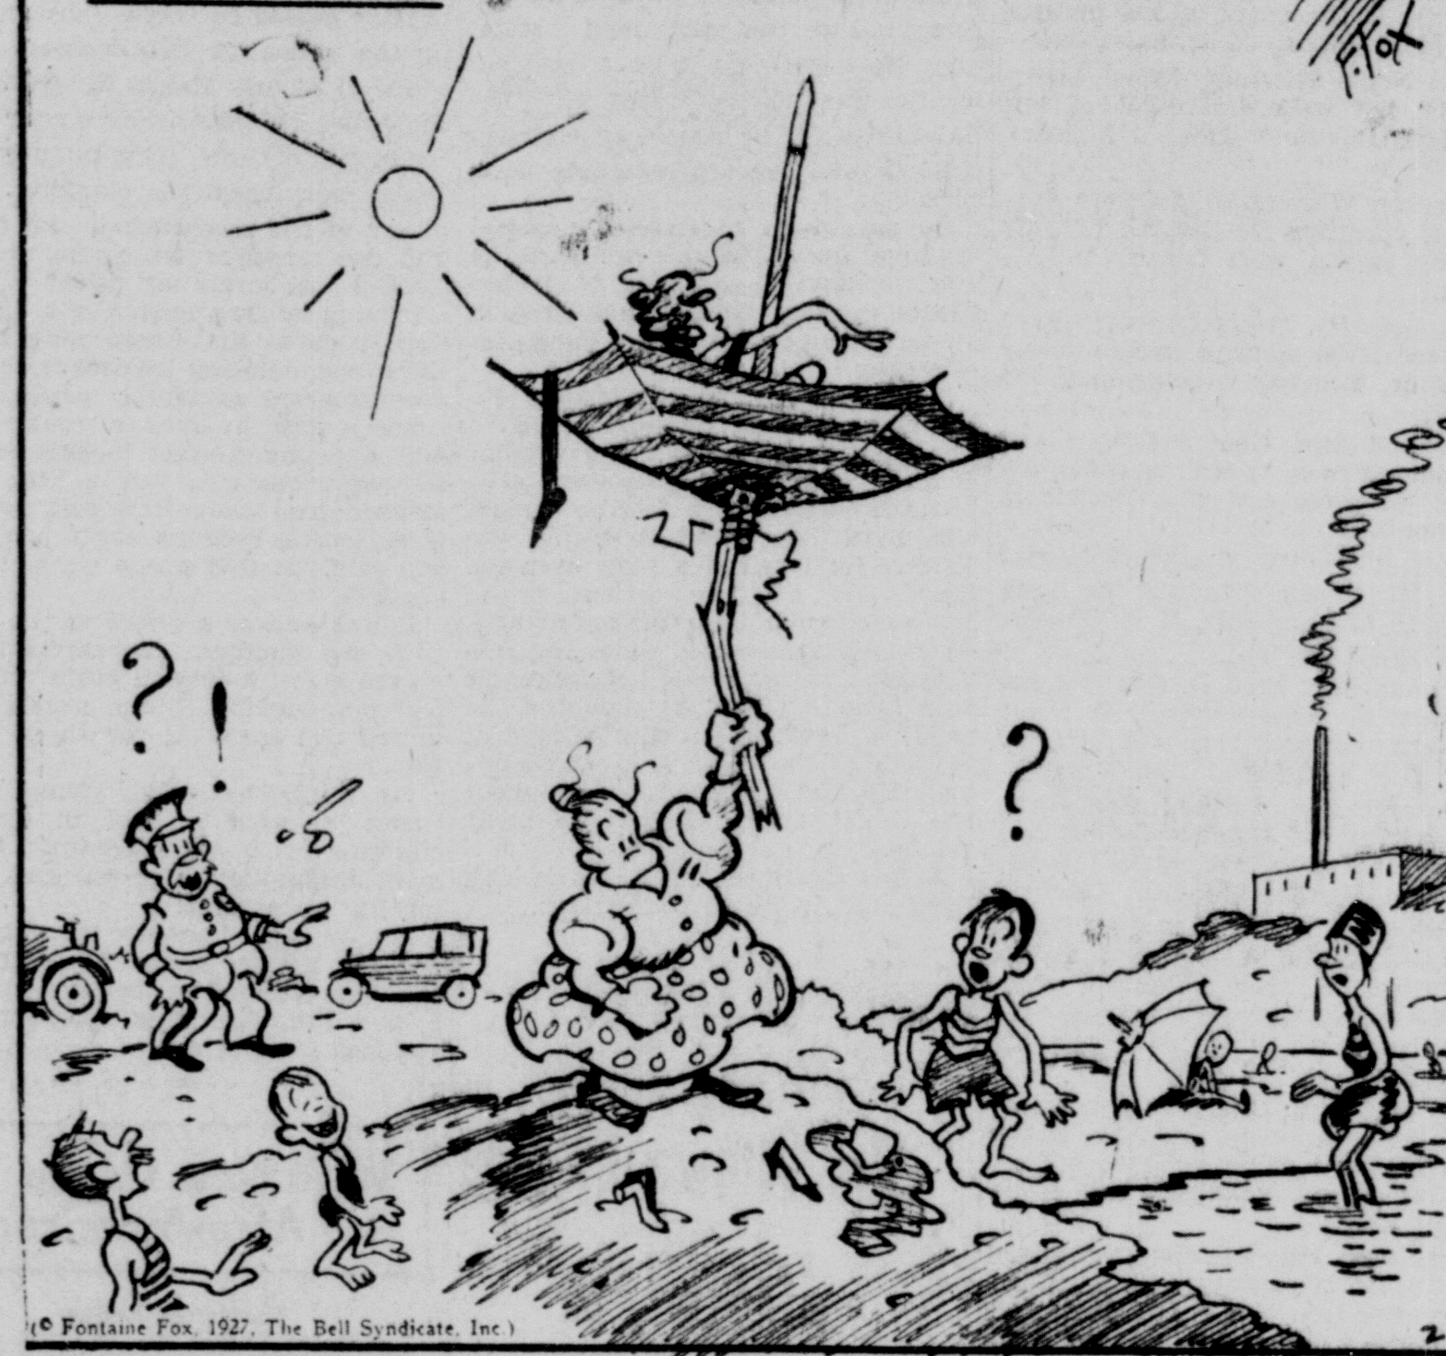

Then men of old England appear to have no hesitancy either in speaking their minds. There is among them a bluntness that is more admirable than diplomatic. The Oxford dons by their bluntness but fed the flames of feminine fervor. Women are not on an equal footing with men in many co-educational schools in this country, but they are not fighting for it because they have been told tactfully it is a sacrifice they must make for the men who some day may be their breadwinners.

If all people could get better mates than they deserve, all marriages might be happy.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight, 7:34. Sun rises tomorrow, 4:32.

The News will not be published on Monday. It will be a quiet day for all of us.

A Hollywood actress was accused in court of wrecking the lives of three men. A good looking man wrecked the lives of a hundred men if the men are in the mood to be wrecked. There are thousands of men she could not wreck at all. It's all in the kind of men.

That vice crusader in Pittsburgh made the charge that some of those in his organization were trying to inject politics and religion into his work. We know so many who would do that if it could get them anything in the way of political capital. That kind of babies are a detriment to civilization, but they get away with it in many places for a long time.

All we have to say about bad checks is that any dud who is green enough to take a check from a crook whom he does not know should have a shortage when he gets his bank book balanced.

A woman who is peddling dresses for an out of town mail order house said on the North Hill to a woman that she found it very easy to sell her dresses to the women on the North Hill, but the women of the East side would not buy of her. There must be some reason for this and we would like to know what it is. We hope it is loyalty to New Castle merchants.

The widening of North street is going to give Washington street some competition and is a mighty good thing. It will mean one more real business street for New Castle. Let the good work proceed rapidly, gentlemen of the city council.

By the looks of things so far it looks as if no Republican will dispute with President Coolidge his right to serve another term as president. All the opposition he will have will come from the Democrats.

When it comes to the heathen in the jungle we note that we never hear of any awful crimes they commit that will compare with those committed by supposed civilized people. No one ever heard of a heathen swiping another with a sash weight, for instance.

Some people are bound to get rid of carrots we note. Now they are cooking them with peas. Some people never cared much for either, especially those who attend banquets.

The only two places that contain everything are the world and a drug store.

That vice crusader in Pittsburgh made the charge that some of the people in his organization were in it to inject religion and politics into its affairs. We are not surprised at that, because so many birds are in such organizations for no other purpose than what they can make out of it perhaps only politically, for themselves.

The flyers who flew to Honolulu will be sure to get some real pineapples at least. They might have brewed there also, but they will find more pineapples than anything else.

A Steubenville, O., man set forth in his divorce petition that his wife would not keep house for him and that she boasted that she only married him because he had an automobile. No man would like to stand for his wife saying anything like that about him, even if he could forgive the no house keeping part of it.

The Wisconsin senate passed a bill that would permit 2.75 per cent beer. Judging from some of the people that state senate sends to Washington to represent it we wonder it stays in the Union at all and does not ask for annexation to Russia.

If you talk in your sleep for the love of Mike do not tell the truth.

A marrying parson in Baltimore is in trouble and it is feared that about five hundred of the marriages he performed are illegal. This may cause joy in some places and consternation in others. We have an idea that there are both men and women who would be glad to hear they were not legally married, no matter what the consequences might be.

Once upon a time there was a New Castle man who sent his daughter to a finishing school, and when she came back she was more humble, more respectful and more economical. It's your turn to tell one now.

If men attended to their own business, history wouldn't be much more exciting than a market report.

We sincerely hope that any of today's jokes didn't need a diagram. However, if there were any you failed to get, just drop us a line and we'll draw you a map of them.

Famous last words: "I'm sure that gas heater is leaking, but I guess I can stand it. It won't do me any harm!"

A chap told us yesterday that he had to get a bone out of his nose. He also said many people had to have the same operation. We had never heard of bones in the nose before, but of course most everybody has heard of bones or ivory in heads.

President Coolidge's birthday comes on the Fourth of July. If noise counts for anything the whole country will help him celebrate it on Monday.

The safest way to put off fireworks is not to have any at all.

What is it to be a gentleman? It is to be honest, to be gentle, to be generous, to be brave, to be wise, and, possessing all these qualities, exercise them in the most graceful outward manner.

—Thackeray.

THANKFUL
To be a cheerful cuss I try.
I am an optimist, you bet;
For I am thankful for
A lot of things I do not get.

—Cheerful Charles.

"O woman! in thy hours of ease
Uncertain, coy and hard to please,
And variable as the shade
By the light, quivering aspen made;
When pain and anguish wring the flesh."

A ministering angel thou!

Judge: "What is the man charged with?"
Cop: "Stealing nine bottles of moonshine, your honor."

Judge: "Case is dismissed."
Cop: "Can't make a case out of nine bottles."

CONCERNING WOMEN AND THEIR FEET
A cold day survey made by two newspaper reporters in a big city shows women do not protect their ankles against wintry blasts, that only one woman in 10 wears high shoes and that the other 90 percent are shod with pumps, slippers and low shoes. The investigators took their stand in the doorway of a skyscraper. The first 11 women who passed wore low shoes, then came a pair of middle-aged women in shoes laced above the ankles. After the 85th woman had passed the score was 79 pairs of low shoes to six high ones. The count was 90 to six when four women wearing high shoes came along. This made the record 90 to 10 and established the ratio. And yet fewer women have colds or pneumonia than men.

The strength comes from common iron rivets that common iron-workers drive in with "air guns" at risk of their lives.

The driving of that golden rivet represents life.

Human beings are like children. A father plays "bear" with his little child, and the child is relieved when the bear stands up and becomes, once more, "father."

In England the eclipse put out the sun, changing day to night, and everybody knew that it was only make-believe night. Nobody feared that "the devil was eating the sun." Nevertheless, when the eclipse passed and the sun came shining out once more, the crowds cheered. They were glad to have mother nature stop playing bear.

When Uncle Sam's fiscal year ended he found a surplus of $635,000,000. Secretary Mellon had "guessed" $625,000,000, a good prophecy.

Uncle Sam really is a rich person and can afford anything he needs. He ought to dig canals, harness water power, build the greatest air and submarine fleets in the world. He should stop trying to persuade Europe to do what it doesn't want to do, attend to his own business and be in a position to make other nations mind theirs. Until this nation is prepared to defend itself against any ten other nations the government will not have done its duty.

"Well done, but what did you do the next day?"
Fokker, airplane builder, would have an answer to Napoleon's favorite question. On Wednesday a Fokker plane flew to Honolulu. Next day Fokker announces a plane to fly, non-stop, for seventy-two hours, and go from Seattle to Tokyo, 5,000 miles. This government should contract with Fokker to keep him here for life building airplanes. Ancient monarchs offered any inducement that would bring great artists to their courts. The great artist of today is the airplane artist.

ON RECEIVING A SOLID SILVER TEE SET
Good friend, when fad and fashion rage

To mark the splendor of our age,
And silversmith and goldsmith vie
To capture man's admiring eye
With tinkers of ornate design,
I take this latest gift of thine
And hold it up that all may see
The dude that thou hast made of me.

From thee a silver tee set comes
To bear the pressure of my thumbs;
To rest upon the ready hand
Enviied by all who stand around:
A tee set, with a glistening chain,
Of which no single link is plain,
Holding a plate, on which I see
'Graved deep, the letters: E. A. G.

Said I to her I love so well,
To whom my every thought I tell:
"What think you Hawkins gave to
She could not guess what it could be.
"A gift you've wanted long," said I.
"A gift I can't afford to buy,
A solid silver tee set, sweet,
Initialed, boxed, and all complete."

"Twere shame to trick her, I confess,
To raise her hopes of happiness.
But truth I told, nor could she tell
That golden tee sets jewelers sell.
And when, within her hand I placed,
Those silver golf tees, carved and

There are just two ways to be happy:
To keep busy or to be born lazy.

It is no discredit to his wife if he is tired of her; usually when that happens, he is equally tired of all women.

Fanaticism isn't new. The second man in the world killed the third for worshipping God in a different way.

They Fly West, and East.
Here, on the Ground.
The Spike of Gold.
Father Plays Bear.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. Americana, Inc.)

You read of the Americans flying west over the Pacific to Honolulu.

You now read of the flight to the east by Commander Byrd and his companions. Our men can fly.

When this was written Byrd was flying above French farms and cities, going more than one hundred miles an hour.

You can get an idea of what this flight means reading that Commander Byrd and his men ran through fog so thick they could barely see the tips of the plane's wings.

Byrd flew south of Ireland, reaching France at Brest, an old fortified seaport on the west coast.

Cardinal Richelieu built a great harbor at Brest that the British once held more than fifty years. Of Brest it was said, "He is not Duke of Brittany, who is not Lord of Brest."

Perhaps Byrd remembered that as he flew over, thinking how easily a few flying machines could make themselves "Lords of Brest," or any other city.

Coming down to earth, it will interest millions of Americans to hear that Lou Gehrig is still tied with Babe Ruth. Each batted yesterday his twenty-fifth home run for this season.

This doesn't make a particle of real difference to anybody, but that doesn't make it less interesting.

New York city iron workers finished work on a gigantic building to house the Equitable Trust Co., and the president of the company drove the last rivet. It was a golden rivet, and will be advertised all over the world.

That golden bar, driven very gently, means nothing in the building, has nothing to do with holding it together. The strength comes from common iron rivets that common iron-workers drive in with "air guns" at risk of their lives.

The driving of that golden rivet represents life.

Human beings are like children. A father plays "bear" with his little child, and the child is relieved when the bear stands up and becomes, once more, "father."

WHY NOT?

On her honeymoon Mary Lewis declared, "I am going to be a wife, mother and prima donna all at once."

Mary Lewis is the blue-eyed girl who was once a singer in our Kansas prayer meetings but speedily arose to the pinnacle of the New York musical world and became a prima donna in the Metropolitan Opera Company. Then she got married. She declared, "It isn't necessary to renounce anything in order to be married. I am going to be a wife, mother and prima donna all at once. Babies do not spoil the vocal chords. Look at Madame Schumann-Helk—thirteen children! I am a husky, corn-fed American girl and will be able to do anything Schumann-Helk did."

We hope that Mary Lewis' plans will successfully be carried out. We may be pardoned for having doubts. Somehow marriage and stardom do not seem to fit. When two stars marry there is liable to be professional jealousy, and when a star marries a non-star there is apt to be another kind of jealousy.

Just why the limelight and marriage do not jibe it is hard to say. Matrimonially speaking, the man who saws wood, or tends a store, or drives a milk wagon, or is a conductor on a street car seems to have a better chance than a Prince or a violin virtuoso.

Somehow, matrimony seems to be especially adapted to Mr. Babbitt and his fellows. All the high brow novelists unite in picking holes in the institution. Meanwhile Darby and Joan get along very well together.

A celebrity needs the comforts of married life quite as much as anybody else. A woman is a solace to a great man quite as much as she is to a small man.

The trouble is that walking in the straight and narrow path, behaving yourself and being decent is pretty hard for anyone who has great gifts. It is hard for a rich man to enter the Kingdom of Heaven and that whether he is rich in money or in talent. The more one has of ability and force the more he needs discipline and self control.

Mary has marked out a path for herself that implies a great deal of will power. Of course, she can make a success of it and here's hoping she will. We cast no asparagus when we say the chances are against her.

MY TOWNS—WASHINGTON

Washington is like no other town in the world. It is everybody's city. In much the same sense that Rome is everybody's, and yet it is as unlike Rome as is Madison, Wisconsin.

Eventually, Washington will be the world's most beautiful city. And that statement needs qualifying. It will be the most beautiful city in a stately, dignified, formal fashion. New York will be more beautiful in its stupendous, perpendicular, spectacular style. Denver will be more beautiful in its exclamatory scenic style. But Washington will be unsurpassed for great, sweeping curves, gem-like settings for noble monuments, and all the stately rear of a wealthy republic's capital city.

Already, a good start has been made, and Washington is one of the youngest of the world's great capitals. There are few ugly spots in Washington. Unfortunately, most of the ugliness is within thirty minutes' walk of the Capitol and the great passenger terminal.

Washington is at all times half full of tourists and souvenir-buyers. Most people who go to Washington for a day or a week spend their time walking through galleries filled with bones of wild animals and specimens of plant life from the four corners of the globe. I confess that those things interest me much less than many

NONE OF THEIR BUSINESS.

They are at it again. This Nation never joined the League of Nations. It did try to get into the International Court,—with Reservations—and many citizens thank God that desire of some Government Officials has not been accomplished yet, but Washington is now in favor of Disarmament Treaties. The last one caused the Nation to destroy a great number of very valuable boats, and now another Conference is in full swing for further reduction of armament. The Observant have not noticed that Japan, England, France, or Italy reduced their armament in any manner whatsoever after the last affair. England seems very anxious that the United States reduce the tonnage of its battle fleet, that we reduce the bore of Naval guns, that we in fact place our Navy at the mercy of the English navy. Japan, on the other hand, is strenuously in favor of reduction of its armament. Japan wants to increase it,—has been increasing it, and wants to increase it some more.

Will Rogers said the other day in one of his daily contributions:—"No Nation can tell another Nation how little it shall protect itself." That is the whole affair in a nutshell. It is an impertinence for one Nation to even suggest such a thing to another Nation. If the United States is willing to permit others to suggest to it what it shall do, and if the United States is willing to accept that suggestion, it will merit from the other Nations of the Earth, no better treatment than it deserves.

Long ago the Founders of our Nation determined that it would be unwise to enter into any entangling alliance with European Nations, and it can be added today that it is unwise to enter into any entangling alliances with any Nation or Nations of the Earth. If England, Japan, Italy, and France, to say nothing of Germany, wish to increase their armament, they will probably do it in spite of any Treaty. They may not build battle ships any bigger than they have been heretofore built, they may not manufacture guns any larger than those already made, but it is a lead pipe cinch they will make their submarines, their fast cruisers, and their ships of the-air just as big and strong as they can. It is the price a people have to pay for being a Nation, for maintaining a nationality. If the Flag, and the rights and privileges that belong to the citizens of the United States, who live by reason of that Flag, mean anything, it is time that we told the other Nations of the World to mind their own business, and we would mind ours.

A GREAT HONOR—

Cannot pay for the loss on one's self-respect.
Seldom comes to a man who has not ventured something.
Always implies great responsibilities.
Usually involves one in great dangers.
Undeserved, brings an empty satisfaction.
Always costs too much if it costs a man's compromise.
Is a poor substitute for the loss of one's home life.

Railroad Extensions Cause Elimination Of Long Used Ball Field

One of the oldest baseball fields in Lawrence county, perhaps in the state, is doomed, according to an announcement made today by S. Hudson Rhoads, freight agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

The baseball field lying north of the B. & O. freight house has been leased by the Independent Coal and Supply Company and in a short time the base paths will be replaced by paths of steel, hauling coal and supplies.

Just how old the baseball field is a question which only the real old-timers can answer. The old Interstate League, back in the nineties, was located there. The field has heard the praises of Hickman, Lowe, Bennett, Waddell and others renowned.

It has seen tow-headed kids grow up into big league stars, and has received them again as middle-aged business men. It has been the training grounds for some of the brightest baseball lights in this section, but the ground is now too valuable for sport, and becomes a coal yard.

So it has been with the other fields in New Castle. Gradually the lots have been taken over for commercial uses and new fields have been laid out in the outskirts of the city.

The B. & O. grounds is the last of the old-timers and it has succumbed to the march of progress. First the Lawrence Lumber Company put in a plant and took part of the old grounds, then the B. & O. established its freight station there, and for the past 10 years the field has been an abbreviated one, but yet large enough to use for play.

There'll be sighs of regret among the old-time sport fans at the announcement of the abandonment of the B. & O. baseball ground. They remember when the old-time luminaries flashed their brilliance there; they remember when the grounds had a grandstand, when the left field fence ran along Division street, and the home plate was just west of Mill street.

But it's done now, the baseball field will become a coal yard and the last of the old-time fields is gone.

Scout Camp Is Closed For Over Fourth Period

Camp John M. Phillips closed this morning and will remain closed until the beginning of the second camping period, Tuesday morning, July 5.

Scouts from the first period left for home this morning. The camp is a deserted place now, although some of the campers desired to stay over the week-end. Some of the Scouts left their luggage at camp, for they are returning for the second period of the camp, and certain Scouts are registered for a whole summer of camping.

Camp life at John M. Phillips is certainly enticing, for one of the largest registrations in the history of the camp has been taken for the period, which will open July 5.

Results of Opening Period

Scouts who enter the Lawrence County Council camp of the Boy Scouts of America do not enter merely a recreational camp, but it is a camp where they participate in all the useful training of the Scouts. The first period resulted in some of the Scouts making as high as 775 camping points, which is a very fine camping record. These points, which belong to the "scout system" of Scout camping, are points that are difficult to obtain. A Scout who reaches 700 camping points must have been on the job during the whole period in order to present such a high number of points.

Athletic enthusiasm reached a high pitch during the period just closed. A regular schedule of competitive athletics, including baseball, camp ball, volleyball, tennis and swimming, was followed each day of the period. Indian archery, one of the new features of the camp, has become probably the most popular diversion of the camp. It takes real skill and natural ability to become a skilled archer with an Indian bow.

No serious accidents, and no sickness during the period leaves a clean bill of health for the camp, and the sun-tanned, robust Scouts who have just left are excellent proof of the advantages of the camp as a health builder.

Brown Scores Highest for Period

Junior Brown is the champion camper for the first period at John M. Phillips Camp. Brown's honor points for a period totaled 775 points. All through the period he maintained his place among the camping leaders. He was the most consistent worker of the period. Many of his points were gained from original scouting work.

Harvey Clyde came second in the scoring for the period, with 745 honor points to his credit. Not a day passed in which Clyde failed to score, and score among the leaders.

Jack Porter is one of the 700 class also. Jack came third in the scoring of the period, with 710 honor points for his camping endeavors.

High Score for Week

Bill Woodworth led the scoring for the second week of camp, with a total of 400 honor points. Bill is one of the most rapidly advancing Scouts of the period and he is becoming a skilled archer.

Harvey Clyde took second honors for the week, as well as for the period. Clyde's score for the week was 340 points.

James Sotus scored 180 honor points Friday. Sotus did not drop his endeavors on account of it being the close of the period.

John Hodge, one of the newest campers, came through in second place Friday with 110 points.

First Magic Show of Season

J. Lee Calahan, Scout executive and master of the magician's art, presented his first performance on Friday night at the camp fire site. Mr. Calahan has considerable fame as a magician, and his shows last summer drew capacity crowds. His show this year is even better than the one he presented last year. He introduced several new tricks Friday evening, which left a very greatly mystified Scout and adult audience.

The magic show Friday evening was held on the new stage at the camp fire site, proving that the new stage is adequate for all kinds of performances, for magic must have special staging facilities in order to be a success.

There was something of a druid atmosphere about the show Friday evening, on account of the rustic background of rocks and trees.

Dan Boones Archery Champs

Stockade Dane Boone met Stockade Dave Thompson, in order to determine the camp archery championship. At the end of the contest the Dan Boones won with a score of 56-10.

The Dave Thompson outfit must have had a bad night or the pink-eye, for they rated better scores than that all through the camp elimination series.

Here are the teams:

Dan Boones: Jack Jones, Bill Houck, Charles Perelman, Jack Porter, Farris Hartley and Bill Woodworth. Dave Thompsons: Harold Charbonnier, Bill Brown, Fred Figuly, Wayne Greer, James Sotus and Joe Pearson.

Dave Thompsons Baseball Champs

A big game with a big score. This was the camp championship baseball game between Stockade Dave Thompson and Kit Carson. The Dave Thompsons came through with the championship, with a score of 14 to 6.

Strong hitting was the feature of the game. Greer registered two three-base markers, while Houck registered one.

Sotus, Greer, Houck and Aggis suggested out two-base hits, which the fielders failed to retrieve.

The teams:

Dave Thompson Champs: Sotus, Pearson, Charbonnier, Houck, Greer, Brown, Garvin, Figley and Malandro. Kit Carson's: Aggis, Kirk, Marshall, Bickett, Hancher, James, Timblin, Kissick, Clyde, Wilson, Jenkins.

GARDNER

Mrs. Anna Moser of Butler, came to Gardner on Wednesday to see her grandson, A. H. Robb and family.

Her son Albert, wife and daughter of East New Castle, came with her. Mrs. Moser is remarkably active for a lady of 88. She makes all her own clothes and many garments for her grandchildren. She made five quilts last winter. Her memory is excellent and she can relate many interesting reminiscences.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Moore of Gardner, spent Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Frew, in Ellwood City.

Miss Cecil McCamey whose parents live at Farmdale, O., is the guest of relatives at Gardner.

Miss Isabel Zehner, assistant music teacher at the New Castle Senior high school, is in Pittsburgh studying music at Carnegie Tech.

Miss Helen Hartzell of Edgewood, Pa., and Miss Agnes McGilgus of New Castle, are guests of their grandmother Hartzell of New Castle-Ellwood highway.

Rev. W. H. Armstrong, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist church in New Castle, will be the speaker next Sunday afternoon at the county home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Anderson of the old Pittsburgh church entertained the Mary Myler League of the Baptist church in New Brighton, on Thursday evening at a strawberry supper.

The pastor Rev. Mr. Riley and Mrs. Riley, were among the 30 guests who had a delightful time at this hospitable home. Mrs. Dora McFarland, an aunt of Mr. Anderson from Chicago, spent a week at the home of her nephew. Although 80 years of age the lady made the trip from Chicago alone. Miss Georgia Gardner of McKeesport is spending a two weeks' vacation at the Anderson home.

Mrs. Marie Redmond of New Castle, spent Thursday with Mrs. Frazier of Gardner.

Opportunity Circle Meets On Friday

Regular Monthly Meeting Occurs, Other News Of Seventh Ward.

The members of the Opportunity Circle of the Mahoning Presbyterian church had their monthly meeting in the church parlor Friday afternoon. There was a good attendance of members present and during the afternoon a program was carried out. Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. H. E. Rhodes. The missionary topic "Spanish Americans" was discussed by Mrs. L. M. Wilkinson, Mrs. David Mackey and Mrs. Robert Young.

After the program a business meeting was conducted at which time the society planned a lawn social, the date, Tuesday, July 12, was set for the social to be held on the church lawn. The members of the society who had been making aprons for the Allison James school turned them in during the meeting. The next meeting of the society will be a picnic. This will be in August. Definite plans for this picnic will be announced later.

Following the program and business meeting a social hour was enjoyed with chat. At a seasonable hour delicious refreshments were served by the associate hostesses, Mrs. Gertrude Marshall, Mrs. C. E. Dungan and Mrs. A. A. Maud.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Columbus Man Dies In Chicago After Drinking Liquor

Believe Poisoned Booze Caused Death Of Columbus Man Out For Good Time.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 2.—A tour of cabarets by three men and three young women ended in tragedy today when Edwin R. Hitchcock, 30, of Columbus, Ohio, collapsed and died from poisonous liquor.

Otto Olson, a cement mixer, was arrested and charged with having sold the liquor. Hitchcock's companion, a girl who said she had allowed herself to be "picked up" to provide "atmosphere" for a novel, was sought with her two companions.

Philip Weisend, 22, and William Kennedy, 26, roommates of Hitchcock were questioned.

America Will Be Shipped To Paris Air Station

(International News Service) PARIS, July 2.—Storm dangers to trans-Atlantic flyers could virtually be eliminated by the construction of an observatory in the southern part of Greenland in the opinion of Dr. Constantin Dumbrava, Roumanian glaciologist and Arctic explorer, now in Paris preparing to head a scientific expedition to Greenland.

The expedition, consisting of three members, will sail from Copenhagen the middle of July for Angmagssalik, on the east coast of Greenland, to study weather and ice conditions for sixteen months.

"The Southern part of Greenland is the point at which all trans-Atlantic storms form," he declared. "With an observatory at the source and the necessary instruments, it would be possible to determine the path of any storm forty-eight hours in advance."

"Colonel Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris was made in thirty-three and a half hours, so that it would be possible to forestall with fair accuracy the weather conditions all along the route of such a flight. With a wireless station direct communication could be maintained with the principal air terminals such as New York, London and Paris."

The Greenland expedition planned by Dr. Dumbrava is under the patronage of the French and Belgian Royal Geographical Societies. Reports will be given by radio to the University of Michigan Greenland expedition which is now operating on the west coast.

The consul delivered to the postmaster at Ver-Sur-Mer the sack of mail that Byrd carried, receiving two receipts for it, one for himself and the other for Byrd.

The mail is being distributed from Ver-Sur-Mer today. This is the first time that letters have been carried across the Atlantic by regulation air mail.

DEAR BROTHER LION: Commemorating the Fourth of July we will have a patriotic program. Attorney George W. Muse, an ex-soldier, will be the speaker.

Lion Welsh is to have some special singing with reference to our natal day.

Greenland Trip To Study Storm Dangers For Atlantic Flyers

(International News Service) PARIS, July 2.—Storm dangers to trans-Atlantic flyers could virtually be eliminated by the construction of an observatory in the southern part of Greenland in the opinion of Dr. Constantin Dumbrava, Roumanian glaciologist and Arctic explorer, now in Paris preparing to head a scientific expedition to Greenland.

The expedition, consisting of three members, will sail from Copenhagen the middle of July for Angmagssalik, on the east coast of Greenland, to study weather and ice conditions for sixteen months.

"The Southern part of Greenland is the point at which all trans-Atlantic storms form," he declared. "With an observatory at the source and the necessary instruments, it would be possible to determine the path of any storm forty-eight hours in advance."

"Colonel Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris was made in thirty-three and a half hours, so that it would be possible to forestall with fair accuracy the weather conditions all along the route of such a flight. With a wireless station direct communication could be maintained with the principal air terminals such as New York, London and Paris."

The Greenland expedition planned by Dr. Dumbrava is under the patronage of the French and Belgian Royal Geographical Societies. Reports will be given by radio to the University of Michigan Greenland expedition which is now operating on the west coast.

Souvenir Hunters Damage Plane

(International News Service) VER-SUR-MER, France, July 2.—Souvenir hunters descended upon the wrecked Fokker monoplane America, which was forced to land in the channel near here, and made off with parts of it, much to the discomfort of Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three associates.

Professor Herbert Adams Gibbons, representative of Rodman Wanamaker, backer of the Byrd flight, arrived here from Paris at 6 o'clock this evening and investigated the plane which he found beached and completely dissembled. It showed the ravages of the souvenir hunters.

Shower Baths Are Popular

While the tennis court at the Carnegie playground on South Jefferson street is very popular with the kiddies there, the shower baths are not forgotten. During this hot weather anyway.

Records show that since the playground opened on June 13, there have been 4800 persons taken showers. Of this number 2800 were girls, 1900 boys while the other 100 were adults.

Miss Miller states that adults as well as children visit the shower baths.

Lindsey Succeeded By Son Of Judge

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON
"Born with your eyes shut. Why I thought that happened only to kittens!" whispered Peter. "And as for having your ears closed, too! Tee Hee! I never heard of such a thing in my life."

The little Porcupine grew indignant.

"'Tis nothing to laugh at!" declared he. "I guess every baby Porcupine arrives at the nest blind and deaf, but he makes up for it later on. Why my daddy can hear a snail's tree length away, I do believe, and I'll bet you can't do that. Say, I am looking for my daddy. Have you seen him?"

Baby Porcupine forgot to whisper, and in the still night his baby voice sounded sharp and shrill.

"Shh!" cautioned Peter, but his warning came too late. Fox had heard and was looking over his shoulder at the boy.

"Woof! Woof! What was that, Two-Legs? Did you call me?"

"No, Cutie, I never made a sound," replied the boy truthfully, and luckily for Baby Porcupine. Fox took Peter at his word and turned again to the brook.

"Quick, do as I say and I will save you, little Porky," whispered Peter, leaning down and whispering in what he hoped was the ear of the youngster.

"Yes, I have seen your daddy—Cutie Fox almost had him, and once your daddy had been carried off to Cutie's den I am afraid he would never have come home to his family again. Don't tremble so! Fox will not harm you if I can help it, and I am sure I can. Like father, like son! I helped him to safety and I will do the same for you. Where do you live?"

"Come, stop shaking and tell me!" "My home is under the gnarled roots of th-th-th-th old chestnut tree," whispered Baby Porcupine, stuttering with fright, and pointing out the direction as well as he could with his little nose.

"Is it far away?" asked the boy. "N-n-no. Only about four tree lengths," stammered Baby Porcupine. "Then make tracks for it and run just as fast as you can," whispered

Baby Porcupine seemed frozen to the spot with fear, but at Peter's final command he started off and Peter almost laughed to see how fast he made his little feet go. Then he thought of his promise. Suppose Baby Porcupine in his terror should stop on a dead twig or run into a heap of dry leaves. All would be up with the little chap then. Peter started to whistle, and none too soon—in a moment Fox trotted up.

Elect Officers At P. H. C. Session

Reports Are Also Made By Returned Delegates From Convention.

With a splendid attendance of members New Castle Circle No. 5, P. H. C. on Thursday night the election of officers featured the session.

The closing term of the local circle fostered by the retiring staff has in every respect been a successful one and the excellent standing of No. 5 is due to the untiring effort of the officers to make it so.

Added to the important election, on Thursday night was the reports from the recent supreme convention held in the Book Cadillac hotel at Detroit.

Million Autos, More Or Less, Will Traverse All Highways In This District Over Fourth

If this weather holds out, and it probably will, New Castle will be treated to a deluge of automobiles over the week end such as it has never experienced before.

Apparently everybody who has an automobile is going away over the Fourth and this goes for everybody else in the cities and counties surrounding.

Located, as we are here, at the confluence of the Cleveland and Erie highways, with the Beaver Valley road to Pittsburgh the Butler road, the Ellwood road, and the Harlanburg and Oil City road pouring its traffic in, there are going to be thousands of cars coming through.

If a suggestion is not out of place, think this over. There are going to be thousands of strangers passing through the city. They do not know our traffic rules, and it is only courtesy upon the part of New Castle drivers if they forbear just a trifle.

The traffic officers will probably keep this in mind also, for a "bawling out" in a strange city leaves a bad taste in a motorist's mouth. Remember this also. Traffic is going to be unusually heavy and the lad who cuts in and out of line is in a fair way to get a permanent wave put in his fenders.

Don't be a road hog over the week end and remember that a lot of strangers would feel better about New Castle if they found us courteous.

Week's Activities At Playgrounds

New Equipment At One Of Many Playgrounds—McCleary Ave. Pool Is Attractive.

The city playgrounds have been very active during the past week and they are planning for even greater things for this coming week. The things at the various recreational centers during the week follow:

At the West Side playground, a social was held to make money for the wading pool that the fathers are going to build. A program was presented by the children. It follows: Stunts by Bill Patton, Bob Otto, Norman Davis, Gerald Morris, Joe Todd, Norman Larson and Bob Jenkins. A dramatization of "Epaminondue and his Auntie" by Myrna Smith, Marion Waters and Edna Jackson. At the Gaston Park grounds: They are planning a social for next week. Boys have astonished everyone with their birdhouses and the airplanes they have made.

At the Sheep Hill grounds:—The new swings, slide and see-saw were erected this week. The children were so excited that there were eight or ten on one see-saw at one time. A contest in foul shooting was held with Mary Munziak being named the winner. A contest in broad jumping was held with Ida May Hites, Mary Jakulewicz and Sophia Lekwet as winners. A horseshoe contest was also staged. Mike Mehler and Stanley Jaskil were the winners.

At the Croton playground:—They are planning for a "Ma and Pa" day at this place for next Thursday. A track meet was held this week and the results follow: 100 yard dash, Bobby Cames and Dorothy Cain; broad jump, Adolph Lastoria and Amy Wright.

At the McCleary playground:—Everyone here is in the water these hot days. A track meet was staged too. In the broad jump, James Manzone and Finale Mathews were the winners. The following were winners in the races:—Raymond Fabron, James Mangine, Paul Hitchcock and Bob Houck.

Other Notes
The first games in both the junior and senior baseball leagues were played. The boys were transported by the city police patrol. The winners follow:—Gaston, Juniors; West Side Juniors and Sheep Hill seniors.

Crepes paper flowers were made of all kinds. These look so real that the children pick them up and smell them.

Realistic Fourth Window Display

C. H. Barton To Duplicate "Spirit Of '76" In Life Size At New Castle Store.

C. H. Barton, of the New Castle Dry Goods company has completed work on a special window display for the Fourth.

This display is a life-size duplication of A. M. Willard's famous picture entitled, "The Spirit of '76." Mr. Barton says that the display contains a large flag and nothing else. All the merchandise will be taken out.

Mr. Barton cut the three figures out of beaver board and then painted them. The duplication is exact. To the rear of the three figures will be an American flag of the Revolutionary war period. This flag of thirteen stars is being prepared just for this display.

An electric fan, connected somewhere in the window, will be used to give the display a better appearance. This fan will create an air current for the flag and make the appearance seem more real.

Mr. Barton who has prepared several other special displays, attended the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and had as one of his instructors "Billy" DeSack, of Barney Google fame.

Heat Plays Pranks On local Highways

Heat caused unique pranks on brick paving in the city, along the Mount Jackson road and Harlanburg highway.

On the Moravia street hill at the intersection of Miller avenue, the brick raised 18 inches and had to be torn up and replaced today.

Tar oozed from between bricks on the top of the Mount Jackson hill and gave all appearance of being a steel girder to automobilists, while the Harlanburg road appeared as though it had been given a coat of tar during the afternoon.

Donaldson Here Inspecting Plant

A. A. Donaldson, special representative of the Fuller & McClinton Company, supervisors of the construction of the sewage disposal plant, is in New Castle today inspecting the local plant. He said that the recent steph when pumping process was started is usual when plants are new.

Dahlia's Bloom In Strobel Garden

First report of dahlia's being in bloom this summer and in this district is that from William Strobel of Sampson street. In spite of the fact that the season has been generally backward and that all kinds of flowers are several weeks later than usual, he has dahlia's, one of the usually later season plants, in bloom.

Apparently he has the right to claim the championship along these lines for the present season.

Big Flag Pole At Legion Home Gets Silver Bath

Annual Brightening Up Ceremony Takes Place For Fourth.

Shimmering like a silver sliver in the July sun, the Legion Home flag pole stands out today in a resplendent coat of silver paint, ready for the Stars and Stripes that will float from the top of it on July 4.

Each year the pole receives its coat of silver paint, and each year there is only one man who does the job, Carl Becker, Steeplejack de luxe, who is a member of the Perry S. Gaston Post, 343, American Legion.

Becker makes his living climbing steeples and cavorting around on flag poles and dizzy heights that would give the ordinary citizen a dose of light headedness. Becker has been in the work so long that a few hundred feet more or less in the air means nothing to him. Long experience has given him nerves of steel and a calculating eye that can judge wind and sway by merely a glance.

The pole has a splendid appearance since its annual dressing up. By all odds it is the prettiest flag pole in the city, not mentioning the fact that it is the highest.

Name Delegates To State Meeting

S. R. Huey Hurt As Ladder Falls

Former County Commissioner Confined To Home As Result Of Injuries.

S. R. Huey, former County Commissioner is confined to his home on New Wilmington road as the result of a fall he had on Wednesday evening, when he fell 20 feet from a ladder while working in his orchard.

Mr. Huey was using a 24 foot ladder which came to a point at the end so it may be placed in the fork of a limb. While near the top of the ladder and reaching for apples, that he was cutting out so as to improve his crop by thinning, the ladder turned over with him and he fell crashing to the ground, apparently lightly injured after the 20 foot fall on his shoulder and head.

No one knew of his predicament until Mrs. Huey was attracted to the spot by his groans and found him unconscious. He was carried to the house and the physician summoned. Mr. Huey regained consciousness as they were calling for the doctor.

After a thorough examination, it was discovered that he was not seriously injured either externally or internally. He suffers now chiefly from the pain of bruised and sore muscles and it will likely be several days before he will be able to be around after such a severe jolting as he received. Aside from the soreness and pain of the jammed muscles, Mr. Huey reports that he feels quite well.

Plan For Fourth At Field Club

Week End Period Has Many Features On Schedule

Fourth of July holiday season at the New Castle Field Club, finds an intensive and interesting program of social, golf and tennis activities, which insure the members of a very pleasant time. While Monday, the Fourth of July, is to be the big day, Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the club house, the members will be afforded the opportunity of hearing Henry Miller, widely known baritone of New York City, in a repertoire of fine musical selections. Mr. Miller has been heard in New York in Opera and other high class programs and his program will prove interesting. He is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. John Foster, during his stay in the city.

On Monday, there will be, of course, golf all day for the enthusiasts in that game. In the morning there will be a best ball tournament and individual sweepstakes events for the men. In the afternoon, there will be a mixed foursome, and an individual sweepstakes. During the morning and afternoon there will be putting contests.

Tennis, as a sport, has not been very actively engaged in at the Field club, but beginning Monday, it will again take its place among the activities of the club. Fine new courts have just been completed and those enjoying this game will have an opportunity of engaging in it during the day.

Socially, there will be a luncheon and during the afternoon, there will be a bridge for both men and women. There will also be a special dinner in the evening, followed by an evening of dancing. The program of the day will be concluded with supper.

Mail Pilot Wakes Town To Fire Peril

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 2.—Lloyd W. Bertaud, air mail pilot flying between New York and Cleveland, who originally was to have flown the Belanca plane to Paris with Clarence Chamberlin, a few nights ago used his mail plane for a fire alarm when he sighted a burning house near Milesburg, at the base of Muncy mountain.

Bertaud was en route to Cleveland with the night air mail when the burning house attracted his attention. Unable to land because of the rough territory, Bertaud flew over Milesburg, twice circling the sleeping village at a low altitude.

Villagers who went to their windows to find why the plane was coming so close, saw the reflection of the fire and gave assistance to the family of Ellis Huey, who occupied the burning house.

The first governor of New York—in the year 1623—was the Dutchman, Adriaen Jorissen Tienpoint.

Young People Enjoy Program

Torrid Evening In No Way Detracts From Young People's Conference

DEBATE FEATURES SPARKLING EVENT

A torrid mid-summer evening did in no way detract the fine spirit of fellowship and enthusiasm which were the outstanding characteristics of the annual Young People's banquet and institute given under the supervision of New Castle Young People's Council in the First Baptist church of this city, Friday evening.

The dinner was served in the church dining room at 7 o'clock at attractively appointed tables by Section Seven of the Woman's Missionary Society. Baskets of vari-colored roses and the patriotic colors made a colorful decoration.

Following the invocation offered by Rev. Walter E. McClure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Paul Arow, was master introduced the several speakers of the evening. Mr. Arow's humorous stories which prefaced each speaker were quite clever and showed much time and thought in being able to secure something for each one.

Greetings to the young people were given by Paul D. Weller, superintendent of the Conference Bible school. He was followed by a spirited talk on "Organized Sabbath School Class," by Paul Palmer. The young man stressed the need of organized classes for young people as well as adults.

"A Well Rounded Life," was discussed by Wilbur Flannery, student of Dartmouth College. Mr. Flannery compared the well rounded life with the four fold life that is much discussed in Council meetings.

Miss Pearl Hockenberry gave a very entertaining talk on "Teaching Youth." She paid high tribute to the "Unknown Teacher," the one who is patient and whose specific duty is to conquer the enemies of youth; the teacher who emphasizes obedience to law and right living. The teacher of the twentieth century has the greatest opportunity to do since time began. More young people are striving for an education than ever before.

Miss Geraldine McClelland spoke on "Denominational Summer Assemblies," and the great good that they are doing in making leaders of young people. She told of the splendid environment surrounding these summer schools and the good influence that they have on the lives of young people.

"Post-graduate Training in Church" was well discussed by John Weyrick. He told of the work accomplished in the several departments of the Bible school. He said Religion should be put to use and have a perfect ideal in Christ. The only way to attain the fullest life was to follow Christ.

The special feature of the evening was the debate "Resolved, That Higher Education for Women is Injurious to Her Proper Sphere." The affirmative was discussed by Frank Breneman and Wallace Brewster and the negative by Harriet Truby, Virginia Reher and Alice May Huffman.

Although the young men's argument was quite convincing in that they showed the modern moral life at college was not what it should be in some cases and that such characters as Abraham Lincoln's mother and the immortal Clara Barton were not college bred which the debaters believed destroyed the chief characteristics of women, they were not able to combat the strong attack of their convictions by the young ladies on the negative.

These young women held their ground with a tenacity seldom seen and argued that an educated woman will accomplish every thing that she undertakes to do.

The judges comprised of Rev. T. W. English, pastor of Croton avenue M. E. church; George W. Conway, editor of New Castle News and Miss Evelyn Winger of Westminster college decided in favor of the negative, by a two to one vote.

The closing talk was given by Rev. George M. Landis of the conference church. He gave the challenge—"Shooting Straight." Rev. Landis told of the penetrating power and ability that young people should have to glorify God; that they should have a worthy aim in life and what a tragedy an aimless life was.

Pep singing led by J. W. Owens and solo numbers by Miss Marguerite Palmer, who sang, "Leadeth Me," by Ashford and Mrs. Paul D. Weller, whose numbers were "The Birthday of My Heart," and "Till for Tat," were especially well enjoyed. Selections by the council orchestra led by Al Bowman, Jr., and a piano solo, "Minuet in G" by Sam Francis were well received.

Miss Catherine McLaughlin and Miss Elizabeth Owens were the pianists of the evening.

The afternoon session opened at 2:30. Talks were given, and demonstrations in Bible school departments were features of this meeting.

T. J. Davies, superintendent of young people's Council is to be congratulated for the excellent manner in which every detail was carried out.

Drunken Driver Given Three Months In County Bastile

Judge Hildebrand opened the Fourth of July season today in court with a few sentences. Mike Mattich was fined $200 and costs and drew three months to the county jail for driving a car while under the influence of liquor.

James Archie was fined $100 and costs and paroled for possession of liquor. Bert Egols was fined $200 and costs and paroled for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

New Castle Motorists Pay Added Cent Tax Without Saying Much

Motorists in having their gas tanks filled in New Castle on the first day of the new gas tax had little to say about the extra cent of tax that was levied on all gas purchasers.

There are several reasons why little would be said, probably the chief of which would be that many had said enough before and at the time the law making the tax on gasoline 3 cents was passed.

One local condition that made it less of a shock according to the owners of many of the gas stations of New Castle was the two-cent reduction in the price of gasoline made last week by the gas dealers of New Castle. One or two remarked that in spite of the added tax they considered they were getting their gas 1 cent cheaper.

Few Comments

A census of several gas stations of the city revealed the fact that most motorists got their gas and paid for it without saying any more than asking the price.

Some remarked about the extra cent and when informed that it was for a tax made no reply, while a very few said that it was not necessary to pay that much tax, that it was too much tax, etc.

Motorists from other states did not have much to say as most of those filling with gas in New Castle are from the neighboring state of Ohio, where they also have a tax on gas and the price is about the same.

Those from New York state perhaps recall that in New York they can get motor gas for 15 cents. Yet when in Rome they must do as Romans do.

Taking it all around little comment was made concerning the tax, all realizing that if they want to ride they must buy gasoline and if they buy gasoline they must pay 3 cents of tax. And complaining and objecting would all be of no avail.

To Raise Millions

The additional cent of tax is expected to increase the state revenues by $12,000,000 during the next two years, the time when the extra cent is to be collected according to the recent law.

According to officials at Harrisburg the money will be used for the construction of roads in the commonwealth. Practically all the last $50,000,000 road bond issue has been used and officials of the state in forcing through the 3-cent levy, pointed that it would be impossible to continue the state's road-building projects if the levy was not approved.

Next year the electors will vote on a constitutional amendment which would provide an additional $50,000,000 bond issue for road construction work.

Much increase in revenue is expected from the new law from the fact that large consumers of gasoline who formerly purchased the fuel in car load lots in other states and evaded the state tax will now be forced to make quarterly returns to the state the same as dealers.

Officers Arrest Four On Charge Of Rum Running

City and county officers early this morning caught four men in their net, while actually on the lookout for but two, whom it was suspected might be transporting liquor.

The police were seeking Joe Natale, and Tony Frederick. Officer Golia came upon them in a car, near the sewage disposal plant, in which there were seven empty liquor jugs.

They were arrested and Natale was turned over to the state police to face a charge of operating a car on the license of another state while a resident of this city. Frederick was discharged.

While in quest of these men, County Detective William Fleming and Officers Harper, Golia and Dukes came upon J. F. Stitt and James Petty in the same vicinity. They had been running liquor, the police charge, between Detroit and Homestead and were enroute home when captured. They had four quarts of bonded liquor in their possession. They were taken before Alderman J. Lee Cooper today by County Detective William Fleming and charged with transporting and possessing liquor.

Make Record At Wampum Plant

Six Months Without Single Lost Time Accident At Crescent Plant.

Six months without a single lost time accident is the proud boast of employees of the Crescent Portland Cement Company today, for June 30 completed the cycle of six months without an accident.

Some time ago the Portland Cement Association put on a campaign of safety first in an endeavor to cut down the lost time accidents. Along with the other companies, D. M. Kirk, president of the Crescent Portland Cement Company, joined the movement and with splendid co-operation by the employees of his plant has reported the six-month total shown above.

Figures on the other cement plants in the county were not available today.

Fliers Seeking New Territory

Next Great Flight To Be Undertaken Is Being Discussed

MAY SPAN PACIFIC IN THREE FLIGHTS

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Seeking new worlds to conquer after the conquest of the Atlantic and the Pacific, American fliers already are thinking of their next great adventure in history-making hops.

Uppermost in the minds of military air chiefs of the United States as they contemplate the next great forward stride in aeronautics is a three-hop broken flight from the California coast to China or Japan.

Three flights to Europe and the flawless 26-hour race from San Francisco to Honolulu have demonstrated that present motor equipment is equal to any endurance flight which existing plane construction can fuel. The progress of the immediate future will be a function of the development of navigation technique to guide airmen over vast reaches of "blind" water areas and the perfection of radio communication to maintain virtually uninterrupted contact between pilots and weather observers along the flight route.

The past two months have shown the world only the first glimpse of what may soon be accomplished in heavier-than-air flying. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, told International News Service today, "I believe that the next five years should produce achievements to match the trans-Atlantic flights."

"We know that our motors are equal to more than ever has been accomplished. With the experience of these four epochal flights to guide us, we should rapidly master the remaining problems of long distance flying—navigation, radio communication for weather reports, and human endurance."

Admiral Moffett said the flight of Commander Byrd likely would contribute more to the science of air navigation than either of the previous trans-Atlantic ventures.

"From Commander Byrd's flight, which was apparently under the most adverse flying conditions conceivable, it will be possible to begin the charting of trans-Atlantic air lanes. Hereafter every take-off over the ocean has been a leap in the dark."

F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, in charge of aeronautics, looks for additional contributions to the science of navigation from the log of the Maitland-Hegenberger flight to Honolulu.

Blue Star Line Builds Arandora In Britain At Loss

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 2.—In completing their latest ship, the Arandora, and eight other vessels at a cost of $5,000,000, the Blue Star Line have sacrificed $810,000 in order to keep the work within Britain.

When the tenders were given out, the coal strike was just looming on the horizon, and every British offer was in excess of that of foreign competitors. But rather than let the work go out of the country, Lord Vestey, chairman of the line, determined to accept the lowest British tender.

The Blue Star has now put five liners into commission in five months—which is believed to be a record. The Arandora has been specially designed for luxurious travel to South America. Her displacement is 13,000 tons and she has first-class accommodations for 180 persons. By being built in Britain the Arandora gave employment to 12,000 workmen for two years.

Decision Filed By Appeals Board In Craig Estate

Income Tax Suit For Sewickley Estate Is Decided At Washington.

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of the News.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2.—Heirs of the $1,831,646 estate of Joseph W. Craig, who died at Sewickley, Pa., 15 years ago, lost their income tax suit involving an aggregate of $38,349 deficiencies in income tax covering the years from 1918 to 1920, by a decision of the United States board of tax appeals handed down today.

Parties to the suit, against whom the deficiencies in tax were determined by the commissioner of internal revenue, were George L. Craig, Presley T. Craig, Matilda S. McCready, all of Sewickley; Percy L. Craig of New Castle and Mary E. C. Brace of Pittsburgh. The commissioner determined deficiencies for the years in question, claiming that the petitioners erred in not including in their returns incomes arising from the estate to which the heirs were entitled. It was contended by the petitioners that since the estate was in the process of administration during these years, the income arising from the properties bequeathed under the will, accrued to the estate and that the tax was assessable against the estate, rather than against the heirs individually.

It was further contended by the petitioners that the commissioner used the incorrect basis for determining depreciation in arriving at the fair market value of certain buildings sold by the administrators and by the refusal to permit a deduction certain losses incurred in farming operations. To these latter contentions the board said the petitioners were entitled to have included in the returns.

Joseph W. Craig owned extensive real estate holdings in Allegheny and Beaver counties, Pennsylvania, including about 30 separate properties, as well as personal property. By the terms of the will he devised all of his residuary estate to the petitioners who were his brothers and sisters, share and share alike. Edwin S. Craig, a sixth heir, died in 1921.

During the process of administration of estate there was an agreement entered into by the heirs, irrevocable for five years, to facilitate settlement of the estate. It was contended that this constituted a trust agreement.

"After a careful consideration of all the provisions of the agreement," the board ruled, "we are clearly of the opinion that the agreement did not create a trust and that the executors were under the agreement merely the agents of the petitioners. This being the case, the title to all the real estate involved remained in the petitioners as did also the ownership of all income arising therefrom, which was received by the agents for the benefit of their principals. All the parties, both agents and principals, kept their accounts on a cash receipts and disbursements basis. When the agents received income from the real estate, it belonged to their principals. Respondent did not err in taxing as income of petitioners, the income derived from the real estate devised to them by Joseph W. Craig."

Huge Fossilized Tooth Is Found In Arkansas

Geologist Believes It To Have Done Duty In Mastodon's Mouth.

The early inhabitants of Arkansas grew big and ate lots, according to George C. Branner, state geologist, commenting on a fossilized tooth found in the bed of Copper Creek in Cross County.

The tooth is a fine piece of dental equipment. In fact, if the prehistoric animal which bore this tooth had needed it filled he probably would have had to obtain the services of a couple of bricklayers and possibly a steam shovel. Luckily for the supply of gold in those days, the filling of teeth was not in vogue.

The huge animal which bore this tooth walked along the bayous and lakes of Arkansas some hundreds of thousands of years before the age of dentists. It was borne, the geologist said, by a species of mastodon with a name fully in proportion with the tooth. This mastodon is known to those who delve in the earth and discover what was going on when Arkansas was just emerging from the sea as mastodon longirostris, or a related species.

The geologist would not identify the specimen definitely but said that during the Upper Pliocene period many of these animals roamed the swamps. These animals reached their greatest development during this period. The mastodon was the ancestor of the elephant, but attained a height of from twelve to fourteen feet. This tooth is not the largest the family bore. Mr. Branner said, as it is not one of the grinding molars, but comes between the grinding molar and the incisor teeth. This tooth, only the top of which was found, would make almost a full set of billiard balls.

The tooth will be sent to Smithsonian Institute for definite identification and then will be returned to the State museum. It was found in the bed of the creek and taken to the First National Bank of Wynne. The cashier, Albert Horner, gave it to the State geologist.

Kansas Farmer Is Giving Up Home To Persevering Ghost

(International News Service)

GREAT BEND, Kansas, July 2.—Declaring that his large ancestral home isn't nearly large enough to house a ghost in addition to his family, Fred Koett, 41-year-old farmer near here is preparing to move from his home and give the "spook" that has disrupted his peace of mind and slumber for several months "plenty of elbow-room." He plans to desert the house indefinitely or at least until every evidence of the intruder has vanished.

"I believe this fellow wants me to leave," Koett said. "He's got something on his mind and maybe that's it. He wouldn't keep up his pestering me if it wasn't. He hangs pictures backwards on the wall, blacks my hired man's eye, opens the family bible and changed the Virgin Mary in different places. Last winter we all saw him peeping in the windows but we could never find any trace of him in the snow."

On one occasion a number of charges of buckshot were fired through the wraithlike form of the ghost by five farmers awaiting him from ambush. The shots did not leave a single trace of blood, however, and the form flitted away.

The five farmers are willing to make affidavits that the "spook" rose high in the air and floated soundlessly over a six foot wire fence like a slow motion picture of a pole vaulter.

Deputy Sheriffs were ordered to guard the house, and for awhile periodic appearances of the ghost ceased. Wayne Lameroux, county attorney, was asked to prosecute the "ghost" so he ordered the "ghost guard" to capture him at any cost.

Why Plane Gets Off Course Explained By Navy Bureau

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Why can't a plane find its way at sea just as well as a surface ship?

They steer by the same signs.

Why, then, can't a competent navigator, soaring a mile high, determine his position as accurately as one only a few feet above ocean level?—in fact, rather more so, since he's up where he gets a clearer squint at the sky.

When San Francisco says goodbye to a surface craft, bound for Honolulu, nobody doubts she'll make port about on schedule time.

But in the case of a plane, there's the keenest anxiety lest the flyers miss the Hawaiian group altogether.

The difference, they say at the navy bureau of navigation, is that small errors which the surface mariner discovers and corrects before they can have serious consequences, become serious to an aviator almost immediately.

A surface vessel, say, is a little off her course. The mistake's set right before she's steamed many knots.

A plane, traveling three or four times as fast, has gone distinctly wrong in the same length of time.

A few hours of thick weather, during which navigation is guesswork to the most skillful sailor are an inconvenience and an expense but generally no tragedy to a surface boat. She slows down and doesn't permit herself to be led far astray.

A plane has to keep up approximately her regular clip. It will be a miracle if her pilot's guessing is faultless and the least miscalculation on his part is apt to mean disaster.

The trans-Atlantic flight and the flight backward from Hawaii are different propositions.

The distances it has shown, are not impossible and there's no missing a continent. Hawaii's a small spot in the Pacific and it's that or nothing—except by the purest accident.

Navy men likewise point out: A surface ship may be driven clean out of her master's reckoning. It doesn't happen now, but it used to. Still, she floats. Her captain can take his time to find himself.

The aviator's time is limited—very limited—before he's forced to take to an element his vessel never was intended for.

Navigation bureau experts are quite frankly skeptical of the possibilities of aviation on routes where sun and stars must be relied on for guidance.

The uncertainties of the weather, they believe, always will make them dangerous, unless, indeed, air craft are developed which can be fully depended on to float indefinitely in the event of forced descents to the surface—quite possibly a very rough one.

North Atlantic aerial travel and the skirting of the American and Asiatic coasts, by way of the Aleutian and Kuril islands, are discussed in navy circles as not only possibilities, but probabilities, of the near future.

The very long hops to small landing places are referred to much more doubtfully.

The problem is regarded not so much one of distance as of path finding.

MERCER NEWS

The summer of 1927 will be remembered by the makers and sellers of automobiles as an off season in that business. Statistics show that the sales of the year by comparison are short in the total sold. Further evidence of the decrease in sales of the "gas buggies" is gleaned from the reports of the Pennsylvania highway motor patrol, which examines drivers here each Wednesday.

The officers of this division state that the number of drivers applying is 25 per cent less than the 1926 class.

The officers state that the peak of the class is reached just before the Fourth of July. The class here this week numbered 80; last week it was 75. Under normal conditions it should have been 100, with some weeks going to 125.

The records show that in 1926 there were 2,000 drivers examined here. The patrol has charge of the group of counties in northwestern Pennsylvania. Sharon, Meadville and Mercer were the three leading towns of 1926. The number of drivers examined here is made unusual for the size of the town, due to the fact that it is the county seat, centrally located, and that the streets here are not so congested with traffic as in the larger towns, which is quite an item to new drivers taking their tests under official guidance.

Miss Betty Clark of Pittsburgh and Emma Jane Mason of Erie were luncheon guests of John Thorn. The summer spent here by Mr. Thorn is the first of some years that he has not appeared in stock in his profession as an actor. He reports himself greatly improved in health by his rest following the long run in New York of the Vagabond King, of which company Mr. Thorn is a member.

Mrs. C. T. Montgomery of Denver, Col., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kerr, of East Butler street. It is her first trip home in seven years.

Today completes the tuberculin testing of the 37,000 head of cattle in Mercer county by veterinarians of state and federal employ. The test started on June 6. It was conducted under the direction of Dr. H. A. Milo of the Bureau of Animal Husbandry of Pennsylvania, who established headquarters here in the Farm Bureau office. To date 136 head of infected animals have been shipped out of the county to be slaughtered under federal inspection. Today carloads of animals were shipped from Sharon, Greenville and Sandy Lake.

The test just finished is what is known as a three-year re-test and is the first conducted in the state, as the initial test of this county was the first.

To pass the test and prevent a quarantine of the bovine population less than one-half of one per cent of infection must be found. Until the readings are completed today, whether this test will be passed cannot be stated. Dr. Milo announced today. Should the number of animals be in excess, it is certain that at the time of the 60-day re-test which follows this, the county will pass.

The number of Presbyterian ministers applying for the pulpit vacancy in the Second Presbyterian church here has now reached a grand total of 92. In connection with the application of such an unusual number it is stated by S. S. Smith, clerk of the church session: "Contrary to belief when this number is considered, the large class does not indicate a surplus of ministers at all. Every applicant is now preaching and has a charge. Many of them are pastors of what might be termed successful churches of the denomination. A desire to 'carry on' in new fields prompts many of them to make application." The pulpit committee of the church will be ready to have candidates preach here soon, Mr. Smith states.

Big Racing Plant Costing $2,000,000 Opens Near Chicago

By COPELAND E. BURG
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 2.—Forty-five minutes from the heart of Chicago, Lincoln fields, at Crete, Ill., has opened its $2,000,000 racing plant, the first track to operate in the state under the new Lager law, permitting pari-mutuel betting.

Chicago betters, who for years have played the ponies but never have watched their favorites in action, are flocking to the new track and before the 37-day meeting ends early in August it is estimated a new record for betting will be established in Illinois.

Experts figure that more than half a million dollars will be registered in the betting machines at Lincoln fields on July 9 when the second running of the Lincoln fields handicap will take place.

Under the Lager law each track pays a daily license of $2,500 to the state of Illinois and a tax of 30 per cent for each paid admission is also garnered by the state. The pari-mutuel betting "take"—that is the share of the money wagered received by the track association—has been limited to six and one-half per cent.

Among the entries in the handicap July 9 are promised Harry Payne Whitney's Bostonian, winner of the Freehock, Whitney's Whiskery, winner of the Kentucky Derby; Joseph E. Widener's Osmond, Valorous, Nimba and Manuta.

Another horse to face the Lincoln fields barrier that day may be Handy Mandy, owned by Hal Price Headley, and the latest turf sensation, Handy Mandy won the recent Latonia Derby in the record time of 2:22 3-5 for the mile and one-half distance, bettering the time of the famed Man O'War.

The Lincoln fields handicap purse is $25,000.

GROVE CITY

Eight members of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church will attend the annual Intermediate Christian Endeavor convention at Cleveland, O. The convention, which was held at London, England, last year, will convene at Cleveland on July 2 and continue through Thursday, July 7. This year's assembly is expected to be the largest gathering of young people the church has ever known.

The members of the local organization who will attend the convention are: Misses Charlotte Cleeland, Mary Campbell, Isabelle Allen, Winifred Armour and Messrs. Robert Atwell, John Cleeland, Ellwood Temple and William Berry. They will leave Grove City for Cleveland Saturday morning.

The Regimental Headquarters Company and the First Battalion Headquarters Company, the two National Guard companies stationed here at Grove City, are completing arrangements for their annual period of field training, which begins this year on July 22 and closes on August 6. All equipment within the two companies is being checked over by the supply sergeants and each man issued full equipment. Special new equipment has been received within the past week, including a shipment of the latest type of army gas masks from the quartermaster's warehouse at Mt. Gretna, Pa., and a shipment of batteries for use in the field telephones during the encampment period.

The drill in the use of gas masks in time of warfare will be one of the new features in the training schedule for the summer training period. The new type gas masks have been issued to all battalions and each company within the battalions will be required to participate in the drill.

This year's training schedule is much different from that of other encampments, in that drill periods are allotted to the mornings only, with the afternoons given over to recreation, athletics and activities within the regiment. The entire training and drill schedule is placed on a competitive basis, with many maneuvers and problems outlined which will prove a most interesting feature of the encampment.

The local companies will make the trip to Mt. Gretna this year in regulation tourists' Pullman cars, leaving Grove City at 4:30 o'clock Friday evening, July 22. The three sleepers, which will carry the local boys, will be hooked on the special train made up at Butler, Pa., which will also carry the two companies stationed at Butler, the Regimental Medical Detachment and Company D. The troop train will pull into Mt. Gretna about noon Saturday. According to the present enlistment, 84 men within the two local companies and seven officers will make the trip.

Preliminary plans are being discussed by various tennis enthusiasts for the annual Grove City tennis tournament, which is held each year on the college courts. The tournament last year was called off on account of Grove City being host to the northwestern Pennsylvania tournament, which was held the first week in August and was entered by a large number of local players. G. G. Forquer, who has headed the tournament committee for the last few years, stated yesterday that although nothing definite has been done, the event will probably be held some time in August. The city tournament has always been closely contested and draws a number of enthusiastic spectators to the courts.

Kiwanis Members Hear Of Convention July 6

When members of the New Castle Kiwanis Club meet Wednesday, July 6, they will be looking forward to a very entertaining hour, when they will hear from Jean K. Love on "Echoes of the Memphis Convention." Mr. Love represented the local club at the annual Kiwanis convention held in Memphis this year.

Three Workmen At Lancaster Injured As House Topples

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., July 2.—Three workmen today were being treated for injuries suffered here when a house which they were constructing collapsed, the three being buried under the debris of falling timbers.

The foundation of the house became weakened during a storm, it was believed, causing the walls to collapse. The injured were Luther Graybill, 33, of New Holland; Harry Diefenderfer, 34, of Columbia, and Ezra Leffert, 27, of Lancaster. Seven other workmen narrowly escaped injury by leaping from the structure.

Around Capitol At Harrisburg

Legislators Are Already Being Worried About Issues Of 1929.

By WILLIAM B. BROWN,
International News Service Staff

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2.—Subjects which will trouble the next legislature already are raising off buried skeletons which refuse to abide quietly in their resting places. The old age pension plan, after having passed one session was killed in the last legislature, but in less than a week its political bones were being rattled in capitol corridors. Those who support the plan and its foes promise it will be a headliner in 1929.

The supreme court's recent decision upholding the Blue Laws of 1794 made another big issue again to be fought out in the next session and doubtless with more bitterness than usually has attended voting on the issue.

Many veterans are awakening to the fact that if they want a state bonus, enabling legislation will have to pass two more sessions of the legislature. At the last minute something always has been discovered which would prevent the necessary amendment from going to the voters. So the bonus amendment is also to be dusted off and raised as an issue during the next session.

Guards who watch the immense vault in the state treasury have been armed with business like looking revolvers and sport the much coveted Sam Browne belt. The average visitor who looks at them in awe is unaware the armament is mostly scenery, for not only is the vault supposed to be proof against any blast short of one which would demolish the building, but all the securities are registered, and most of them in denominations which would be difficult to negotiate.

"My successor has not been born yet," said Mussolini recently. "The world no doubt hopes that such a person never will be born, too.—The Nashville Banner.

(International News Service)
BELFAST, July 2—Eve may have been bad, but she was an angel compared with Adam, in the opinion of Lady Astor, the former Nancy Shaw of Virginia and England's first woman Member of Parliament.
Addressing a Belfast woman's temperance meeting, Lady Astor remarked that eastern women not only had to obey their husbands, but had to worship them. "A lot of husbands wish there were more women about like that," she added.
"I would like to show," she went on, "that women have been great protesters in their time. Eve was the first protester, but I am not going to say much about Eve, because men came out rather badly in that story. Eve might have been bad, but she was an angel compared with that weakling, Adam."

Nine hundred and five ballots were cast in the election.
A regular city plan government is carried out there. Printed ballots were used in the election, which was carried on in secret booths.

NEW CASTLE TO PLAY BUTLER HERE MONDAY

Game Called At 3:15 O'clock

Morning Game At Butler On Monday; Locals Have Busy Week-End

FIRST HALF OF LEAGUE TO END

By "BUGS" WALTHER
Monday afternoon, or July 4, to be exact, the New Castle team of the O. & P. League will wind up the first half of the season race by playing Butler at Centennial Field. The game is scheduled for 3:15 o'clock daylight savings time.

The morning game will be staged at Butler. It will mark the first and last appearance of the Butler Bruin Oils at Centennial Field this year. The Butlerites were scheduled here earlier in the year, but they were rained out. Butler has decided to withdraw from the league for the second half and consequently they will play their final game as members of the O. & P. League at the local ball orchard.

This afternoon the locals are down at Beaver Falls, where they tackle Ed Harvey's league leading Beaver Falls Elks gang. The Elks need this game to clinch the pennant in the first half of the league race for the championship. According to the dope Beaver Falls will send their "ace" Elvin Hilly to the knoll today, to try and stop the mad-rush of the Lawrence County entrants. Meis will likely fling for New Castle. The locals gained a 6 to 1 advantage in the game played here last Wednesday.

Tomorrow afternoon the locals are booked for the Erie field, with the Sailors. Jamieson who has been mighty effective against the Lake City boys this year, will more than likely draw the pitching assignment. New Castle can wind-up the first division by winning all four of the games, carded over the coming week-end.

Feigert and Meis will likely work the double-header with Butler on Monday, with a possibility that Steen may take a fling in the morning game at Butler.

Advance Sale Of Tickets For Davis Cup Match Play Breaks All Records.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service
NEW YORK, July 2.—All records for advance sales of Davis cup challenge tickets have been broken two months before the event in question. The United States Lawn Tennis association announced today with pardonable pride, evidently imbued with the notion that this circumstance is a subtle tribute both to itself and the sport it governs. The Tennis association is mistaken—possibly by force of habit.

It is about to sell itself short of tickets because the American public senses the fact the Davis cup seems due to go on a long journey and morbid as always, wants to be in at the death.

The recent defeat of William T. Tilden at Wimbledon, following so closely upon the heels of his failure to stop Rene Lacoste at St. Cloud, has left few illusions concerning America's likelihood of retaining the international trophy that has been held in custody here since 1920. The all-French final round today and the all-French final of the forest Hills affair last year also constitute talismen of truth along the highway of the immediate future.

The writer doesn't say that France cannot lose the Davis cup play off, merely that France shouldn't.

"They were trying thought-reading. 'What did I just think of?' asked Max of his friend Arthur. 'You thought, Max, that if I were to ask you now for the loan of 50 marks till the first of next month you would say you couldn't do it. Was that right?' 'No, that's wrong.' 'Really? Then can you let me have the money?'—Kasper, Stockholm.

Miller Pitches Third Straight Victory Over Coaltown Team Friday Night.

Bessemer advanced to within the shadows of first place in the Lawrence County League on Friday night at the Coaltown grounds by topping the Coaltown team, 6 to 1. This was a postponed game from earlier in the season.

Miller ascended the mound for Bessemer and turned in his third straight victory over the Coaltown boys. Miller limited the losers to but four hits and fanned seven of the batsmen. In no inning did the Coaltown team threaten. Their lone marker came as a result of Mackey getting hit by a pitched ball and scoring on an error by Hood, who allowed Murphy's hard hit liner to get away from him.

Hoover put Bessemer into the running in the fourth inning by crashing out a home run with Fahey and Kirker on the paths. Hoover also had a hand in the two-run rally in the fifth inning by crashing a single to left, scoring Black and Hood. Fahey drove home the final tally for the Bessemer team in the seventh inning by tripling to deep middle, scoring Hood.

Hoover and Diffley, with three hits apiece, led the Bessemer team at bat, with Fahey and Hood doing something swatting. Gennock was the best sticker for Coaltown, with a pair of safe blows.

Mackey, on the knoll for Coaltown, was touched for 10 hits by the hustling Bessemerites. The "Nocks" had three errors that didn't help matters any.

Lackey hurled a one-hit game last night at the Lehigh field as the First Christians downed the First Methodist team 6 to 1 in a Church league contest.

First Christians by their victory last night just about clinched the first half of the Church league race for the championship. The Christians had two big innings the sixth and seventh when they drove in five of their tallies. Baker on the hill for the First M. E. boys was hit hard. Lackey pitched a fine game and except for a scratch hit by Lackey would have had a no-run, no-hit game. Lackey fanned nine men.

OUT OF THE SMOKE

Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Don't be fooled by a little thing like a smoke screen, citizens, for that cloud of soft coal smoke that hangs like a pall over the good city of Pittsburgh hides the 1927 National League pennant winners, or else Charley Lindbergh is a poor aviator. Cubs, Cardinals, and Giants, each have their following, but when all is said and done, the team that has the punch, the power, the reserves, and the manager, is the good old Corsairs of the City of Soot.

When a team can laugh at adversity and play sensational baseball in the face of misfortune, as the 1927 Pirates have done, it deserves all the honors in the game, and the Pittsburgh crew has shown time and again, by unleashing a powerful offensive when their opponents have a five or six run lead on them, that they possess that not-to-be-denied fighting spirit which is personified in their new pilot, Donie Bush.

What can you do against a team that has hitters like Barnhart, Harris, Paul Waner, Wright and Traynor and speed boys like Cuyler and pitchers like Meadows, Kremer, Morrison Hill and Aldridge? Not forgetting, too, that in the left side of their infield the Pirates boast of the greatest defensive combination since the days of Long and Collins of Boston. A ball has to leave the bat with the speed of a rifle bullet to get through the stonewall made by Glen Wright and Pie Traynor.

This Pirate team is a colorful and interesting combination. From that battle-scarred war veteran, Joe Harris, down to the youthful Waner brothers, they are all endowed with an abundance of that subtle quality Elmer Glyn calls "It." Smoky City fans will tell you that "It," in this case, means the 1927 National League pennant.

Gehrig Leads Famous Babe In Home Runs

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
Boston long has been known as the city of culture.

It is also the city of crooked streets, the scene of the famous tea party and the residence of many stars of the cauliflower making pastime-boxing.

Jack Sharkey's coming opportunity of fighting his way into the heavyweight championship battle draws attention to the number of good ring men the Hub has turned out. Sharkey is a Bostonian. Maloney, recently whipped by Sharkey, was a fellow townsman.

Topping the list of Bostonese, however is John L. Sullivan the man who carried the heavyweight title over the gap between the old bare knuckle era of 75-round fights to the modern era of short and sweet (financially) title battles. Joe Choynski was the pride of Boston—and justly so.

Probably the most prominent heavy next to Sullivan and Joe to represent Boston was Sam Langford. While he was born in Nova Scotia he made his home in Boston and started his career there. There were two or three other lesser lights among the heavies including "Porky" Flynn, who claimed Boston as home. George Gardner lived time light heavyweight champ lived there after coming to this country.

Boston fans will tell you early that George Dixon, "Little Chocolate" bantam and feather champ, lived there as did Joe Wolcott, the "Giant Killer," Jack Twinn Sullivan and Mike also called the town home.

Mysterious Billy Smith, Honey Melody, Jimmy Clabby and others can be added.

Boston can claim more than its share of good fighters.

George Blaeholder protege of Jimmy Austin is due to get another crack in the big show before the present baseball season ends judging from his work with the Tulsa club. He piled up 12 consecutive victories this year before being halted and later losing that one added a couple more victories to his list.

Blaeholder was taken south to the camp of the St. Louis Browns three years ago a green rookie. Austin, incidentally had been ordered to the grounds at Tarpon Springs in aid of the playing squad to see that everything about the newly built playing field was shipshape. When he arrived he found that there was nothing to hinder base hits toward right field from dropping into an alligator pond. He promptly set to work to erect a high wire screen. Blaeholder's first big league uniform was a pair of overalls. Jim got all the thrills of a proud parent buying the suit for George but his guess on $122 for George was just as poor as it was for the suit he picked out for himself.

Fans generally are worried about Walter Johnson the grand old man of the American league.

His inability to hit his stride after a rather conspicuous start a few weeks ago has caused many close followers of the game to fear that the idleness forced him by the accident to his foot last spring has been well nigh fatal as far as his career is concerned.

Johnson on his first appearance in the box after his recovery pitched shutout ball against the Boston Red Sox. He seemed to have his old stuff and plenty of power.

Since that time however—at least at the writing—he has failed to repeat that performance or come anywhere near it. The Indians, Browns and Athletics all turned him back the first time he faced those clubs. He won another game from the Sox later but it wasn't an impressive affair.

Fandom always has held hope that such slumps would be only temporary and year after year Johnson has weathered such periods. He is only human however and this may be the end of his career.

"Curly" Andrews In City For Visit

Thomas F. "Curly" Andrews, former pitcher with New Castle in the old O. & P. league in days gone by, is back in New Castle today for a short visit with his brothers and sisters.

Mr. Andrews is now located at Kalamazoo, Mich., and is still pitching baseball, so they say. Only recently while pitching in an industrial league game, the former southpaw heaver ascended the mound and limited the opposing team to a lone hit. It would seem that the former pitcher has not lost any of his cunning.

The old times here will remember "Curly" when he southpawed the O. & P. league teams to death. Mr. Andrews will be in New Castle for the next few days and will be glad to meet any of his old friends.

Pirates Increase League Leadership

Pirates Down Reds As Cards Lose To Chicago Cubs In Slugfest

GEHRIG CRASHES HIS 26TH HOMER

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 2.—While the Cardinals and Cubs are cutting each other's throats, the Pirates are gradually increasing their lead in the National league pennant race. The Reds trimmed the Pirates yesterday 5 to 1 and stretched their lead to a game and a half when the world's champions lost to the Cubs to 2. Meantime in the American league a hot four-cornered battle for second place is being waged. The latest development being the rise of the Detroit Tigers to the first division and the flop of the Athletics to fifth place.

The record of the Senators, Tigers and Yankees read like the chart of a race between non-stop flyers. Washington has won eight straight, the Yanks six straight and the Tigers have topped 10 of their last 11 starts. Carmen Hill of the Pirates won his 11th victory in beating Luque of the Reds.

Pitcher Hal Carlson, acquired from the Phillies, is keeping the Cubs in the race single-handed. He held the Cards to five hits yesterday while his mates knocked Flint Rhem silly.

Giants-Braves Divide.
Playing in the second of five consecutive doubleheaders, the greatest endurance test in the history of baseball, the Giants broke even with the Braves again. The opener, a comedy of eight errors, went to Boston 7 to 6. With Grimes on the mound the Giants took the nightcap 4 to 1, shelling Kent Greenfield off the mound. "Greeny" couldn't win for the Giants when he was with them, but since joining the Braves he has won two games for McGraw's men.

Thompson scored second with the winning run on an infield out as the Phillies beat the Robins in the ninth 7 to 6, and snapped Dazzy Vance's winning streak. Babe Herman, Brooklyn first baseman, was benched in favor of Gink Hendrick. Hadley, Washington's lanky rookie hurler, held the Athletics to three hits and won 2 to 1. Ruel made four hits for a perfect day at bat.

Gehrig's 26th homer featured the Yankees 7 to 4 victory over Boston. The Sox have lost 13 straight, only seven behind the league record.

The Tigers slaughter Cleveland 10 to 5. George Grant, rookie pitcher, who won his first start recently for the Indians, was kayoed.

Thirty-four hits were made as the Browns took a 14 to 12 slugfest from the White Sox. Pinch Hitter Ike Boone got one of four homers during the slaughter.

Tennis Match Is Postponed

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, July 2.—Because of the necessary play-off of a postponed match in the Pittsburgh Tennis association tournament today the College Hills Tennis club of Beaver Falls has postponed their scheduled match with the local club. However, Osborne Crowe secretary of the local organization announced that this postponed match would be played very soon.

Clifton Flats Wins From Garlands In Fast Game 4 To 3

When the Boro A. C. failed to show up for their scheduled game with the Clifton Flats team last night at the Flats ball park, the West Pittsburgh Garlands, who were to play the Si-man All-Stars, substituted for the Boro A. C. and took a beating, 4 to 3. The game was one of the best played at the Flats field this year.

With one man out in the ninth inning and the score deadlocked at 3-3, Coates reached first on an error and scored the winning run when Williams crashed a double to left field.

Through the kindness of the Carnegie Steel Company and the Flats ball park has been greatly improved and is second to none in the county, with the exception of Centennial field. A new backstop and seats to accommodate 300 fans have been erected. The Clifton Flats team will play the Garlands two games on Monday, the Fourth of July. Games are wanted with the Twilight League teams. Call 3715R and ask for Bill Smiley.

In College Town Singles Tourney

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, July 2.—In-stead of the match with the Beaver Falls College Hills Tennis club that was scheduled for today the New Wil-mington Tennis club will run off the first rounds of a singles tournament. Starting at 1 o'clock the matches will be played in the Phi Pi Phi courts here. Although some of the New Wilmington stars will not be in the tournament there will be plenty of good tennis displayed.

The pairing for today's matches are G. Herriott vs. A. Kirkbride, Barnes vs. Crowe, T. Herriott vs. Botsford, Maxwell vs. Kuhn and B. Mansell vs. the winner of the Herriott-Botsford match. The matches will all be the best out of three sets.

How Come? Asks Mr. Wilkes-Barre

(International News Service)
WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 2.—The Wilkes-Barre Chamber of Com-merce wants to know where the city stands, geographically speaking, in the anthracite region.
Hayden Williams, secretary, today awaited a reply from Richard Halde-man, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation at Harrisburg, to a letter addressed to Halde-man yester-day in which Williams took the Fed-eration's publicity director to task for what Williams felt was a slight to Wilkes-Barre in that Scranton and Sunbury have been referred to as the centers of the anthracite coal in-dustry in the Federation's literature concerning holiday week-end motor trips.

Williams charged that the city was being purposely left "out in the cold" by the Federation, and said further that Wilkes-Barre, as a matter of fact, was the center of an area which produced more anthracite than the Scranton and Sunbury areas com-bined.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1927.—The first twenty days of July, 1927, will be more stormy than usual but I see no reason to expect storms of this period to be of a character that would be dangerous towards life and property unless it would be in southern great central valleys. A moderate warm wave will be expected to accompany and follow storm wave centering on June 30, of little importance with the exception that temperatures in north-ern and central great central val-leys will probably reach a higher ex-treme for a day or two than would be best for general crop conditions. Where possible, top soil should be well stirred previous to this period, especially in localities where wet weather has formed a crust. Plants, like animals, need air in order that they may remain healthy; all row crops should be well cultivated at every opportunity this season. Cool wave following storm wave of June 30 is not expected to carry average temperatures much below normal in any section.
A storm wave of severe intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on July 7; following this storm center, average tempera-tures will make a decidedly down-ward movement; while the center of this general storm wave will not be expected to travel far southward, but to keep near the average path of the northern trans-continental storm path, the cool wave that will follow storm center will probably make very favorable conditions for the forma-tion of severe local storms in south-ern great central valleys as cool wave north of Ozarks comes into con-tact with hot, stagnant atmosphere that will be expected in section 9 at this time. Severe southern storms are not common during the month of July but we are really in an unusual year, even the official meteorologists have issued statements to the con-trary. A decided decrease in general precipitation is expected to occur in North America during July; most rainfall of month will occur near 9, 17 and 31. Heaviest precipitation will continue to fall on western and southern slopes, as the season ad-vances, this feature is expected to be more noticeable, eastern and north-ern slopes becoming more dry, west-ern and southern slopes becoming more wet, relative to local normal pre-cipitation. In answer to many let-ters regarding this feature, the fol-lowing general description will satisfy the majority: Western slopes include from crest of Rockies to Pacific ocean, from the Mississippi-Missouri valley east to Hudson Bay. Great Lakes and Allegheny range. Eastern slopes include from Rockies crest east to the Mississippi-Missouri val-ley, from Hudson Bay. Great Lakes and Allegheny range east to Atlantic coast. Southern slopes include from Ozarks south to the Gulf, from Hud-son Bay and northern Prairie prov-inces to a little south of the south-ern Canadian line. Localities that are not fully described in the above will be described in a personal let-ter if request and return postage is addressed to Foster's Weather Bureau 32 T Street, N. E., Washington, D. C.

Prohibition Machine Faces Stormy Career

New Prohibition Machine Threatened With Stormy Sailing

Protests Received Over Removal of Chester Mills As New York Administrator

By ROBERT S. THORNBURG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Stormy sailing for the government's new prohibition machine under Seymour Lowman of New York, who August 1 will become assistant secretary of the treasury, threatened today.

Many protests are being received at the treasury from dry advocates because of the removal of Major Chester P. Mills of New York as administrator for that city.

New York dries apparently are up in arms over the claim that Mills was removed because he refused to do the bidding of politicians in making appointments and handling alcohol permits.

Despite the fact that Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran declared that Mills' removal was a "disciplinary measure" because the administrator failed to act promptly against subordinates accused of using third degree methods, those who objected to the New York personnel shift have been officially informed that Mills in reality was promoted and then quit.

Start Rebuilding
While Lowman does not assume office officially until next month, he has been supervising the rebuilding of the Andrews machine for several weeks. Andrews, called here to confer with Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills over the New York situation, informed friends that he had nothing to do with prohibition enforcement. He is on a leave of absence until August 1.

Officials sought to belittle the statement made by Major Mills that political patronage, not efficiency, has become the chief requirement for prohibition appointments, but it was admitted privately that the quick action taken in the New York dry office "probably was a little hasty".

Every effort is being made at the treasury to smooth out prohibition administration before Congress convenes. The administration wants the minimum number of bones of contention lying about that can be dragged out onto the floors of Congress by the wets and dries.

Solve Problem Of Traffic Keep Auto's Off City Streets

(International News Service)

CONSTANTINOPLE — Tokat, a town of 30,000 inhabitants in Asia Minor, has for many years had its street traffic problems.

Now the municipal authorities of the town have solved the matter by the simple but drastic method of totally prohibiting the circulation of automobiles and bicycles in the streets.

ABE MARTIN On Hypocrisy

DISCUSSIN' TH' ADDRESS

Yesterday, with jest a faint breath o' winter still lingerin' t' mingle with th' sweet fragrance o' ole fashioned roses, Miss Fawn Lippincott addressed th' Skunk Ridge Club. What memories th' odor o' th' roses must have awakened in th' breasts of her hearers, memories o' other Junes fer back thro' th' mist o' years, fer next t' bitin' in a green pear ther' hain't nothin' that'll git you t' thinkin' like th' odor o' an ole fashioned rose. Miss Lippincott's subject wuz, "Hypocrisy an' Four Flushin'." an' her bitin', spirited flings left no doubt in th' minds of her hearers that she knows her onions. Deplorin' th' fact that purty much ever' one we're thrown in contact with these times are sadly lackin' in th' peculiarities o' th' genuine, she went on t' say that th' element o' boldness is gittin' t' be a fer greater asset than character an' intellect. "Th' married four flusher," said Miss Lippincott, "who makes his own bed, eats oats an' rubs his own socks out, wouldn't be so bad if he didn't quote his wife all th' time. An' th' pompous nonentity who walks along with chin erect, wearin' big fierce lookin' shell glasses, an' tryin' t' look like he'd jest completed a review o' th' last century. He's prob'ly jest been ordered t' contribute t' his wife's support, or is closely pressed fer an ole meat bill. We all know him, an' we all know th' literary pest, th' woman that's read all th' novels, th' woman with th' undernourished children, th' woman whose cookery has wrecked her husband. An' th' reformer, that awful unpop'lar human bein' who assumes t' map out daily lives, who fixes th' alcoholic content o' pop, an' who says th' sale o' gin has stopped. There's all sort o' reformers. Some reform fer a livin', an' some reform fer th' love of it. Reformin's a hobby with some folks. They don't git anything out of it. They jest like t' reform people. I know a reformer who has a market stand, an' sells cantaloupes openly, even recommends 'em, an' stacks his strawberries, an' if you don't stay right with him he'll fergit all about your change. I know real estate agents that'll throw a fit if modification o' th' Volstead act is even hinted at. An' this has been an' awful year on optimists, an' yit they hold up an' pretend t' feel that ever' thing's fine. I don't spend no time around pessimists, but I prefer 'em t' cheerful idiots. Ther's nothin' to be particularly optimistic about these days, unless we're lookin' fer th' worst of it. Th' future o' aviation looks purty bright, but ther's an awful lot o' other things t' tax our anxiety. Of all th' abominations, deliver me from th' artistic four flusher who raves o'er th' beautiful, while her husband sits on th' verandy in his bare feet smokin' a cob pipe an' readin' a pink paper. Four flushers abound in ever' strata o' society, but they seem t' thrive best on th' upper crust, where no credentials beyond money are required, where one may smell like a new buggy, or sympathize with Helen o' Troy, an' nothin's thought of it. T' me one o' our funniest four flushers is th' fellow who crosses his legs an' leans on a cane in a funeral limousine, like he's used t' it. Oh, why can't we all be our natural selves, wet or dry?"

South Pole Flight Is Now Projected

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 1.—Arrangements for Commander Richard E. Byrd's projected flight to the South Pole have been completed in minute detail, it became known here today coincident with the news that the crew of the America was safe in France.

The personnel of the expedition already has been virtually decided upon, it was stated by several persons who said they would accompany Byrd on the trip.

Byrd, they added, will return from Europe immediately and embark on his South Pole expedition not later than September 1, accompanied by the crew of the America and members of his North Pole voyage last year.

A tornado tore the front off the barber shop in a Missouri city. The only question we have to ask concerns the continuance of the barber's shaving activities.

Fishing Season Opens In State

State Fish Commissioner Predicts Season To Be Good One.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 2.—The open season for 11 species of game fish began in Pennsylvania Friday, despite recent rains. Nathan R. Butler, state fish commissioner, predicts a good season and large early catches. Seasons opening Friday with the legal sizes and catches follow:

Bass, small and large mouth—July 1 to November 30; not less than nine inches long. Ten of combined species is legal limit.

Bass, white rock, crappie, strawberry or calico—July 1 to November 30; not less than six inches; 15 of combined species in one day.

Pike perch or wall eyed salmon—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; 10 in one day.

Pickereel—July 1 to November 30; not less than 12 inches; 15 in one day.

Muscalonge or western pike—July 1 to November 30; not less than 23 inches long; three in one day.

Lake or salmon trout—July 1 to September 29; no size limit and 29 may be taken in one day.

The trout season, which opened April 15, will close July 31.

Resident fishermen over 16 years of age and all non-residents must have licenses. The fee for residents is $1 plus ten cents for the county treasurer. Non-residents' fees are in accord with those charged in their native states but do not exceed $2.50.

Two rods and two lines and one hand line with not more than three hooks is the limit for each fisherman. All must be under the immediate control of the fisherman. With the exception of landing gear no other means of taking fish is permissible.

Dies From Exhaustion After 900-Mile Race To Father's Bedside

BALTIMORE, July 2.—Howard M. Keyes, 41 years old, died suddenly here yesterday after driving an automobile about 900 miles in 48 hours in an effort to reach the bedside of his father, who is critically ill here. His death was attributed to physical exhaustion.

Keyes, who lived in Wauchula, Fla., two days ago received news of his father's illness and immediately set out for Baltimore. Seven hours after his arrival he was found unconscious and died shortly afterward.

Cody To Celebrate Fourth Dedicating Handsome Memorial

(International News Service)

CODY, Wyoming, July 2.—The dedication of a museum to the memory of the late Colonel William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), here, July 4, will be the feature of the celebration of the nation's birthday in Cody this year.

The museum, built in imitation of the famous T. E. ranch which was constructed by Cody himself, is an old fashioned log cabin. Here will be displayed relics memorable of the exploits of the great Indian fighter and scout, many of which he himself collected on his travels.

The museum is due to the efforts of members of Cody's family and many of his old friends.

The dedication ceremony will take place at sunset of the opening day of the big Cody stampede, a relic of the old west which takes place in that city every year on July 4, 5 and 6. Among the prominent people from all over the nation who will attend the ceremony will be two lifelong friends of Buffalo Bill, General Hugh S. Scott, U. S. Army, retired, and Colonel Godfrey, U. S. Army, retired, both knew Cody and accompanied him on many of his expeditions.

Photographs can now be satisfactorily developed on a recently discovered fabric which can be washed and "done up" when necessary.

Eavesdropping is still punishable as a crime under an old act of the British parliament dating back to the year 1360.

Buy $5,000 On the Installment Plan

Good and Bad Investment

Pay in $25 every month to our office and we will return $5,000.00 to you in about 133 months. That is the easiest money you ever saved. Isn't it worth $25 a month out of your salary to be able to have a nest egg of $5,000.00?

The money you pay in is loaned out on local real estate first mortgages. The loans are made under the direction of local men who only loan up to 60% of the value a local committee of appraisers place on the property.

Come in and let us start you on a Systematic Savings.

LINDBERGH'S SUCCESS

Did Not Come Suddenly.

He had prepared for it and when the opportune time came—he won.

We all look forward toward some cherished plan or object which requires money and the way to get it is to prepare for it.

The only way for most of us to PREPARE is to save something every week or month—COMPLETE ourselves to do it—then when the time comes along WE WIN.
